

WAT UP, YO?

VIDEOS SHOW HAZING IN U OF A ADMIN

SHAWN RETCH
Editor-in-Beef

The entire U of A administration engages in various practices of hazing to initiate upper-level management, according to videos obtained by The Getaway, as well as testimonial from university staff.

The most surprising part about this shocking revelation was that support for such hazing rituals are directly stated in the U of A Administration policy manual.

According to the "Dare to Deliver a Spanking" policy, "hazing of senior level executives is not only allowed, but condoned and encouraged by the university, to ensure that we get only the top candidates in the upper echelon of the administration."

"To provide students with the best education possible, of course," the policy added.

"It's not like this was a big secret," said University of Albundy Board of Rulers Chair Pryin' Heidirker.

"Anyone could have come and asked us. Every year, whenever we have new Vice Presidents or administrators start, we make sure that they are put through the most strenuous tests survivable by postsecondary educators."

PLEASE SEE PRANKS ♦ PAGE 6

Exclusive Copyright makes decision to burn books

DARN MCCHANEY
Hipster Extraordinaire

Exclusive Copyright, a non-profit collective that restricts people's right to read in Canada, announced this week that they had proposed a new policy to protect copyright owners.

"Going forward, Exclusive Copyright will simply be burning books as they leave the printer," said spokesperson Jeanne Davis in an interview, pouring lighter fluid over a pallet of Norton's American Literature Anthology. "We feel that it is in the best interests of rights-holders that end-users not be able to use these materials at all. We can only guarantee that no unlicensed reproduction of materials will take place through the purifying flames of a roaring chemical fire."

If the new policy is passed by the Copyright Board of Canada — and also even if it isn't, since they already started — Exclusive Copyright will immediately send squads of "firemen" to campus and begin torching the several million books that the university's libraries hold.

"It's about accountability," said Davis. "We feel it's important to have a human face on this important process. Well, a human gas mask, at least. This is just a pilot program for now, but we'd like to have a dedicated fireman on every campus in the country within five years to ensure no unauthorized infringement takes place." When it was pointed out to Davis that all infringement is unauthorized, she declined further comment.

In addition, libraries will no longer carry required textbooks on reserve, as the reserve materials, as well as the shelves the books would be on themselves, are scheduled for arson.

Steve Merino, representative for publisher Coleslaw-Hill Ryerson Canada, praised Exclusive's new strategy.

"Exclusive Copyright has chosen the wrong
SU to mess with."

ADEN MURPHY
KNOWS ABOUT EVERYTHING

"Exclusive Copyright has the right idea, we think. Once we have the royalties from the initial sale of the book, we don't give a fuck what happens to it. Making students purchase a new copy every time they need to reproduce something means huge profits for us, and in this economy, you take what you can get."

University of Alberta Provost Charl Ani-mime said in an interview, "I think, for students, and for undergrads especially, this is a good move. Like the CoSSS fee, it's really in the best interests of our students, and not a cost-saving measure, so don't even go there." University President Indira Samaracitesources added, "We have undergrads?"

However, Students' Union Presidenté Rick DeRoss said that the pillars of smoke rising from the bookstore's loading docks have led to an increase in usage of the Student Health & Dental Plan as many students are treated for symptoms of smoke inhalation.

"I mean, we're glad that the health plan is seeing use, sure. We spent all that money on posters and the website. But we expected 10, maybe 20 people per year to actually use the benefits. Now hundreds of students are drawing on it and it's cutting into my hookers and blow budget. Don't print that part."

Bony Cement, the federal Industry Minister, could not be reached directly for comment, but an aide went on record to say, "Since taking office, Mr. Cement has worked long and hard to defend the rights of those already wielding the most clout: American publishers. Mr. Cement's office feels that Exclusive Copyright's new strategy, while unorthodox, is in the best interests of the wealthy minority. We support it wholeheartedly."

Wasp Cleaners to improve campus image with mascot

MARTY HERSHEY
Patches Lover

University of Albanta janitorial contractor Wasp Cleaners Structural Upkeep has revealed plans to improve their campus image after a rash of bad publicity by employing a cheerful wasp mascot to teach students about fair labour practices.

"Hey kids!" Wanda the Wasp yelled as she jumped out from behind a tree in CAB, frightening several passing students. "You know what's fun? Moppin' the floor! And I can assure you I'm paid a decent living wage with health benefits for doing so. I am definitely not shipped back to Southeast Asia for being late. Now who wants to buff the tiles with me?"

The wasp then put on a top hat and monocle, and proceeded to dance the charleston with a cane.

The new PR idea came after the company faced allegations that they had not paid overtime wages to temporary foreign employees and threatened to send them back to their home country.

"We believe that the idea of a tap-dancing bee will go a long way to make people remember that we're not, and were never, about deportation and withholding wages; we're about serving the campus community," Wasp Cleaners CEO Barney Honeyhocker said in a statement.

The inclusion of Wanda the Wasp was only one way in which Wasp Cleaners has been trying to improve their public image. Recently, Wasp Cleaners employees have been seen on campus wearing fuzzy yellow-and-black caps, something management asserts creates a cheerful environment where workers can have fun.

"This experience has been incredibly degrading and humiliating, even more so than the usual day-to-day bullshit we put up with working for these assholes," said a Wasp Cleaners employee, who asked that their name be withheld for fear of losing their job.

As of press time, there were rumours that Wanda the Wasp had begun asking janitors to buff her shoes and go get her coffee.

CAMPUS 5-0 BULLETIN

WANTED

Anyone with information about the whereabouts of a vigilante Dean is encouraged to contact U of A Broctive Services. He is armed and dangerous.

MISSING

This man was last seen dealing drugs outside of M. E. Lazerte. Please contact Protective Services if you locate him. Do not take justice into your own hands.

THE GETAWAY

www.thegetawayonline.ca

print: not dead yet!
Can't stop. Won't stop. Grow always. Grow all ways. MILK

And now for something completely different

Published since a long, long time ago
In a little shack far, far away.
Circulation now is over 10 billion
Most issues

Suite 2.5
Hidden floor
Students' Union Building
University of Alberta
We're watching you
where you work
Henderson
...

Telephone: Replaced by tin cans. Just yell.
We'll hear you.
Fax: Really? People still use fax?
Ever hear of email?
Email: "The Turkey has come home to roost"

shootergirls

CHUGGER-IN-CHIEF Jinx
one_more_email@gateway.ualberta.ca

MANAGING NOT TO BARF Jasmine man_aging@gateway.ualberta.ca

RALLY AND RECOVERCHAMP Lexi
rude@gateway.ualberta.ca

DESIGNATED DRINKER Simone
limp_wrist@gateway.ualberta.ca

OPINIONATED DRUNK Anastasia
snark@gateway.ualberta.ca

ENTERTAINING EDITOR Eva entertain_me@gateway.ualberta.ca

SQUIRTS EDITOR Man-handler
goat_tours@gateway.ualberta.ca

FACEBOOK PHOTO TAGGER David Coppa-feel hornrim@gateway.ualberta.ca

PARTY PLANNER Lexxxi
productface@gateway.ualberta.ca

CHIEF SORCERER Jenny
movie_h8ter@gateway.ualberta.ca

barstaff

SHOTS MANAGER The A-Game
itzaboutthenumbers@gateway.ualberta.ca

ADVERTISING CONTESTS The Sethuation
snails@gateway.ualberta.ca

BOSS OF BOTTLE SERVICE The Vikkiation
helvetica_rulz89@gateway.ualberta.ca

AGGRESSIVE BOUNCER Frank
EX-CON BOUNCER Frankie

THE GETAWAY is published by some students who hang around this office in SUB and celebrate their independence from the other form of campus life that also tends to hopelessly prolong their degrees, the SU hacks.

THE GETAWAY just wants your loooooooove.

bitchin' and whinin'

Comments, concerns, or complaints about the Getaway's content or operations can suck it. We do what we want.

steal this paper

All materials appearing in The Getaway bear copyright of their creator(s) and may not be used without written consent. To read The Getaway, one must pay an $850 fee to Access Copywrong. Or we'll track you down and break your legs, you copyright skimping jerks.

disclaimers

Opinions expressed in the pages of The Getaway are works of falsehood and tomfoolery. You'd be ill-advised to take anything within these pages as fact.

Additionally, no one actually reads the masthead. What, do you actually have nothing else to do? Get a life! Watch TV, go for a walk! Go to class! There's really nothing as pointless as reading this random shit.

The Getaway reserves the right to periodically adjust its circulation. We do what we want.

colophon

The Getaway is created using Macintosh computers, though we plan to chuck them off the roof of HUB next chance we get. Macs might be user-friendly, but Windows is still the better machine. Don't understand how to use a PC? Well, maybe you shouldn't be using advanced technology. Get a fucking Etch A Sketch. We also use content-aware to generate photos. And Microsoft Paint. Just kidding. But that shit is cash. We also like stripper names written in various fonts. Some of my personal favorites are ROXI, Candy, Lexi and Destiny.

contributors

Kermit the Frog, Fozzie, The Great Gonzo, Rizzo the Rat, Beaker, The Swedish Chef, Dr. Bunsen Honeydew, Miss Piggy, Scooter, Sam the Eagle, Animal, Marvin Suggs, Camilla the Chicken, Statler and Waldorf, Crazy Harry

I'm afraid I can't answer that question because I'm munching a rug right now.

COUNCIL HAREM

Written by See Wee Men

Students' Council meets every second Hump Day in the Council Chambers in University Hall at 6 p.m. Council meetings are only open to students President Ned Dehot has personally approved for attendance. Application requirements include a naked full-body photo of the applicant followed by a hands-on group interview.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, January 12, 2011, where free food will be provided for Ned Dehot and all female attendees he rates above an eight. Interested applicants are encouraged to contact The Getaway's Deputy News Editor and Photo Editor, who would be glad to take the necessary photos and prepare the candidates for the hands-on interview.

Council's most recent meeting was an additional gathering to introduce the successors for all the councillors, executives, and the Speaker who were replaced with Dehot's handpicked all-female slate. Council provided a delicious holiday spread, complete with muffs, camel toe, and a side of pussy. So if you're at all interested in fishy politics, swing by, fill your mantrap, and get it on.

LACK OF LOCKS

President Dehot made a presentation to council on the attractiveness of the contours of his cranium after having the opportunity to observe himself in the mirror for the past week since his shave. At his prompting, a slideshow of Dehot both with and without hair was displayed, which elicited murmurs of admiration from the newly appointed representatives in University Hall, while a newly appointed arts councillor on his right stroked the president's thigh. One councillor asked after the presentation if she could fornicate with Dehot at that time, or if she had to wait until the intermission, and the new Speaker called that question completely in order, causing a 10-minute recess.

RE-WOMAN-ERATION

Another presentation by Dehot addressed the success of the increased remuneration for executive positions. Dehot expressed his pleasure at the increase, as without it, fewer women of child-bearing age would have applied to fill the open positions on council, decreasing his fecundity.

QUESTION PERIOD

Dehot fielded some questions about the resignation of all male members from council for "personal reasons," and explained that he couldn't speak on the issue any further due to confidentiality agreements that had been signed with the members, who have all since disappeared. When Dehot was further asked about the resignation of Councillor Natalia Cox, he again refused to comment except to say he was glad "there is no more Cox on this council."

JAMIEJEASTHAM

Dehot fielded another question about changing the voting system from an Instant Run-Off Voting System to the Sexy Threesome Virgin (STV) System. Dehot stated that he did not want to risk the cost of the STV, so he informed council that the project was now on hold until the end of next school year. The overhaul of members set them back in their plans, so an STV was really not what he needed at the moment. He refused to comment on the potential within the Instant Run-Off Voting System to rig an election. Dehot stated that he may consider another term as president.

The new Vice President (Student Life) Candii Foxe was asked about the consistent absence of operational microwaves on campus. Foxe stated that she had implemented a new program to discourage microwave use. She explained that everyone wants to look like her, so "by posting pictures of myself at 100 lbs, it will encourage female students to not eat lunch or dinner at all." Foxe further went on to say that her goal as a VP was to rid this campus of the freshmen 15.

BILLED OVER AND OVER AGAIN

Bill 24, which had been passed at a previous council meeting, was reopened by the Elections Review Committee (ERC) for amendments, which passed through council. ERC found that the time necessary to rewrite the code to randomize the candidates' order on each ballot was excessive, deciding to revert to giving the newly appointed CRO Roxie Minx responsibility for determining the order of all candidates. Minx decreed that she would rank the candidates on the ballot based on their tonguing, foreplay, and bust size capabilities. Dehot showed his approval by calling a 15-minute recess and banging Minx in the conference room.

Bill 35, which passed in its second reading at the meeting after Dehot's rendezvous, created a Council Eunuch Subcommittee (CES), which would be tasked with finding a small group of first-year undergraduate males, castrating them, then having them perform Dehot's bidding. The group of eunuchs would predominantly be involved with working out the kinks in the fall reading week plan, as well as tending to Dehot's several dozen concubines.

69

Council passed Bill 69, which outlined as a numbered list the specific duties all members had to perform for Dehot during their term. This bill also included that female Dental Hygiene students could apply for any faculty's councillor position. Dehot refused to comment on the specifics of the duties, and he expressed his enthusiasm for the beautiful women in Dental Hygiene. Dehot announced that all future candidates in the elections should be able to perform vigorous and thorough services as required.

LEAKERS

Compiled and photographed by
Nic "Nakedman" Chill and Madman Hurlly

Julius Assangel
Wanted sex offender

Tom Flannelghan
Wanted assassin

Jimbo Whales
Wanted panhandler

Aden Murphy
Wanted by women everywhere

All over the American government.

During the prorogation crisis, I took a leaky dump in the Governor General's hat. That's close enough, right?

Spare some change? Pee for a dime.

I would never take a leak anywhere strange. I only piss on my living room carpet in my special designated corner.

Dean Robinson dangles drug dealer over ledge

JUAN BLECH
Editard-in-Residence

Dean of Students and former undercover narcotics officer Frank Robinson took justice into his own hands Monday morning, hanging a drug dealer by his ankles over the ledge of Education Car Park.

“Gravity is a cruel mistress, Eddie,” Robinson reportedly stated in a raspy voice, as the flailing man begged for his life.

“I swear to god, man, I don’t know who killed your partner!” the scumbag screamed, before Robinson reportedly whispered something along the lines of “then I’ll let God and the devil sort it out” before dropping the man to his inevitable death.

“I’ll be honest; I do it to nail star-struck first years.”

ADEN MURPHY
COMMENTS ON ALL KINDS OF SHIT

Eyewitnesses said they saw Robinson speed away in a black Cadillac out of the parkade, which subsequently exploded into a hundred-foot pillar of flames.

A city-wide arrest warrant has been issued for the vigilante Dean, who has become a populist antihero in recent weeks after news came out of the murder of his former partner by a local drug cartel. With police refusing to investigate, Robinson apparently took matters into his own hands, becoming a one-man wrecking ball with nothing to lose. Nearly 20 low-lives have been taken down at the hands of the university’s student liaison, who is now being referred to by local crime syndicates as “El Muerte.”

“Put quite simply, I’m afraid for the lives of the drug dealers,” Provost

JUSTICE HAS A NAME And it rhymes with “Jank Killingston”

EDDIE (DECEASED)

and Vice President (Academic) Carl Amrhein said. “Whether he’s shattering kneecaps with a baseball bat, tossing informants through plate glass windows, or standing menacingly over a tied-up dope peddler while holding a blow torch, it’s pretty clear that Frank takes shit from no one.”

“I mean, what can I say?” added Amrhein. “The glasses. The leather jacket. The salt and pepper ‘stache. Damn.”

Amrhein said that the university supported Robinson “100 per cent” in his quest to rid the city of scum.

Although the police are searching for Robinson, whose current whereabouts are unknown, many citizens have pledged their support for the noted educator and avenger, who is allegedly the only person with the cojones to stand up to the filth and thuggery in this metropolis.

Robinson’s only official statement about his motives came in a letter sent to Edmonton Police that said, “what does a shattered man have left but vengeance?” before adding that “my only official statements will come out the barrel of my Glock.”

SOUPA stages Students’ Council coup

BLARIN’ YO
Alleged Pinko

Students’ Council was in chaos last Tuesday as a group known as Students Opposed to Upholding the Present Aristocracy (SOUPA) overthrew the incumbent student government.

Students’ Union dictator Nikolai Dehov was forced to step down and then forcefully escorted from council chambers.

A motion of non-confidence was made early in session by the General Secretary of SOUPA, Commandante Petrov Kuskovitch, citing that Dehov’s charisma and leadership abilities had diminished since he lost his hair. In an effort to raise money to visit his backers in Columbia, Dehov had shaved his head last week.

“Dehov had us all under a spell. A trance, if you will. His luscious locks and laid-back surfer demeanour were so enchanting, I don’t think anyone had the cojones to stand up to him,” Kuskovitch explained.

With a megaphone in hand, Kuskovitch addressed a crowd of 20,000 proletariats stuffed into council chambers, as he further expressed his contempt for Dehov’s regime.

“It’s all about the people. The tens of hungry, deprived undergraduates on this campus,” Kuskovitch said. “When the SU holds their Week of Welcome, their Orientation, their AntiFreeze, they exploit hundreds of students to perform the intensive labour required, and then what do they get in return? A lousy shirt. This is not how the system is supposed to function! Comrades, the revolution will only come through the blood and toil of the working class!”

Other councillors were soon convinced by Kuskovitch’s fiery oratory, rallying to SOUPA’s efforts at bringing down the bourgeoisie regime.

However, because there is no set process for overthrowing authoritarian regimes, Kuskovitch drew a cutlass and challenged Dehov to a duel. Dehov, who had not brought a sword into council chambers, ran away to avoid confrontation.

“How was I supposed to know he would bring a sword to a knife fight? Seriously, who does that? The Dollanshevik Revolution days are far behind me,” he said afterwards.

SOUPA immediately began outlining their manifesto, parts of which included replacing all the cups in SUB with martini glasses, finally adding some fucking microwaves to CAB, and placing tampon dispensers in both male and female washrooms, based on communist ideology.

However, SOUPA ran into troubles when they tried to pass the new constitution. Councillor Natalia Cockslob pointed out her issues with comma placement in one of the clauses.

SOUPA quickly imposed their authority and most of the other councillors made a quick decision to stay alive and support their new rulers. Cockslob was subsequently lined up and executed along with other loyalists to the old regime, such as Tomislav L’Whinébitch, James Eastavich, and Danita Robertoslav. Roric Tijie, who was previously a lookalike body guard for Dehov with similar locks of golden hair, was tortured mercilessly, as Subcommandante Rao pulled out his fingernails with pliers until Tijie gave up the codes to the cash till in RATT.

Meanwhile, just outside council chambers, the ousted Dehov gathered support from his surviving loyal supporters — a tight clique of SU officials, a few councillors, and the rest of the Dehov clan, whose bloodline had ruled U of A student government for nearly three centuries. Escaping to safety, the Dehoves took shelter in a small cottage just outside Windsor Carpark, unaware that the new regime had put out a hit on their lives.

social

MSW application
deadline: January 31

BSW application
deadline: April 1

justice

matters

Social work education
in Edmonton

Have a degree? Have 2 years of university? Have a diploma? Need Info?
www.ucalgary.ca/fswcentralandnorth

UNIVERSITY OF CALGARY
SOCIAL WORK
... in Edmonton

UHC
University Health Centre

Stressed out about exams?

Student Counselling Services offer:

- *Personal & group counselling
- *Psychiatry
- *Consulting & outreach

2nd floor, SUB | www.ualberta.ca/healthcentre

PEACE, BREAD, AND FALL BREAK

COMRADE DEHOVELOV

FOR THE UNION

Success.

Being successful includes overcoming obstacles. If your schedule is getting in the way of completing your business degree, don't let it stop you. Athabasca University's Faculty of Business has the courses you need - online, without the obstacles.

Success begins at www.business.athabascau.ca.

Athabasca University
Faculty of Business

U of A admin purchases President $930,000 spouse

YAWN MENCH
Senior Presidential Reporter

The University of Alberta administration paid almost a million dollars to buy President Indira Samarasekera a brand new spouse, according to documents obtained by The Getaway.

Her new husband, a white guy named Gary, was purchased for her by the university as part of contract negotiations from a mail-order husband agency. He will take over all spousal duties from Samarasekera's former husband, who apparently doesn't have a name according to any biography of Samarasekera ever written.

"It was to our mutual benefit that the U of A president had a good-quality spouse of hardy stock who would not only support the president and repeat things she says, much like a noble parrot, but also stand behind her in most photos," U of A Board of Governors chair Brain Homewrecker said. He described the new husband as a "52-year-old, middle-aged, medium-sized Caucasian, with a notable paunch and male-pattern baldness."

Gary will reportedly walk the president's dogs, take out her garbage, organize and iron her pantsuits, and be emotionally supportive, tenderly caressing her and possibly nibbling her ear when the university drops in international ranking lists.

According to statements, the university purchased him from INeedAMan.com for $930,000. Gary will be paid a salary of $602,396 a year and is reportedly fairly well-endowed.

When asked how he felt about his new role in the higher levels of U of A governance, the middle-aged white man said, "I'm helping!"

Since the university purchased the spouse, they have also used him for social events and entertaining, regularly tying a pork chop around his neck and releasing a group of Rottweilers to the delight of the Board of Governors. Gary has also proven himself adept at schmoozing at parties and welcoming international delegates.

"He's very well suited for social engagements, small executive-type meetings, and hosting visiting dignitaries, allowing them to hunt him in the forest behind the president's house. Plus, when Gary starts telling his 'You might be a redneck' jokes, everybody just laughs in delight," Homewrecker said fondly. "I believe that this will be a good long-term investment for the university. The profile of "First Man" is crucial to the image of the university and the image of the president that we've worked so hard to cultivate."

Students' Union President Nick Goldenrod was unaware of the spouse, but asked for more time to evaluate the man's credentials.

"At a point when the university is in unprecedented levels of debt and students are paying fees that get them nothing, I can't decide definitively whether spending a million dollars on buying the president a hubby was a fiscally sound idea. I suppose I could express outrage, but I'm unsure if that would accurately represent the blind anger students feel about the administration doing whatever the fuck they please," Goldenrod stated, adding that he would also quite love to order a spouse but had "spent his entire fucking paycheck at RATT."

Goldenrod said that it could be seen as "unfortunate" that the U of A seemed to be trapped in a bizarrely paradoxical cycle of poverty and constant spending on absurd luxuries.

According to sources, Samarasekera's previous husband has not been seen in several weeks. Homewrecker noted that he "might have tripped and fallen into a trunk somewhere."

Cooking in the nude is
INADVISABLE.

You'll burn your junk.

SERIOUSLY: IT'S A BAD IDEA

CAMPUS HOTEL PLACE:
BURN YOUR JUNK IN PRIVATE

campus regurg

Compiled by Slackulic Dumbing

INDIRA TELLS WHITE MALES "IT GETS BETTER"

Coming on the heels of the popular "It Gets Better" campaign in the U.S. in support of young LGBT teens who have experienced harassment, University of Alberta President Indira Samraddaa had some words for a local oppressed community she supports.

"It gets better!" an enthusiastic Samiriera told white male students in an exclusive party she held in her new, university-purchased guesthouse overlooking the North Saskatchewan. "I know, sometimes it's tough in this world. But with determination and a little bit of white privilege, eventually you'll end up out-earning any other identifiable minority!"

Samarawrrr, who recently had the university purchase her a mail-order husband, has made uplifting the downtrodden white-guy population on campus a focus of her time at the U of A.

White males at the U of A have recently faced blatant discrimination, both in the workplace and in the day-to-day campus environment. For example, some individuals from the women's studies department recently had an equality bake sale where males were made to pay more than females for the same product, mostly due to womens' studies majors having no discernable sense of humour or irony. As well, when some hippies had a protest against global warming by building snowmen in Quad last week, white males walking by were mistaken as snowmen. Forced to join the activists, who reportedly hadn't showered in weeks, they were degraded as the hippies tied carrots to their noses and forced them to stand for hours.

Though historically the dominant power, both in Canada on a global scale, white male dominance has recently been challenged by both women and those of less lazy ethnicities, who have the unique talent of working full days at work.

UAPS HANDING OUT CONDOMS

In line with its new name and mandate to manage risk, the University of Alberta Protective Services (UAPS) has started to distribute condoms. As well as keeping students disease- and responsibility-free, the condoms will have services provided by UAPS printed on them, such as "special duty services", "accident investigation," and "alarm response."

UNIVERSITY INSTALLS FULL BODY SCANNERS

As final exams approach, the university has taken drastic measures to curb cheating by installing full-body scanners in classrooms and at all building entrances across campus.

Especially attractive or comically-shaped students are statistically proven to be the most likely to cheat, and will be the primary targets for the scanners, according to university officials.

"These scanners protect us all. Cheating threatens our way of life, and I for one would be happy to show people my love torpedo for the greater good," chief scanner Peeping Tom elaborated.

Tom added that only trained professionals will be operating the machines.

"We have offered full training for volunteers and a surprising number of young men from Lister have signed up."

Volunteers are also receiving training in enhanced pat-downs for busty, blonde students that refuse the full-body scan.

First-year body scanner volunteer Sean Smut says he joined the program to meet new people.

"The full-body scanning community is an excellent way for me to become instantly intimate with my fellow students," Smut said. "Before this opportunity arose, I had to spend hundreds of dollars and waste multiple afternoons on useless coffee dates before I could cop a feel. This one time I spent $80 buying shots for a girl at a bar and she just walked away — now, legally, she has to look me in the face."

The U of A has assured students that no images will be saved and will only be seen by operators like Smut, who said that he 'normally' doesn't need to view the images for more than five or six minutes, and 30 seconds on a good day.

U of A provides cash-strapped profs with tin cans, string

SHOELESS JUAN
Deputy Tin Can Reporter

In an effort to ease the burden on departments that have removed phone lines due to the university's $14.8 million budget deficit, the U of A will provide affected professors with tin cans and string.

"I'm proud to say that this week, university workers delivered to my office two large cans of Campbell's soup and some of the finest twine I've ever seen," said English and Film Studies professor Larry Saunders, as he sat on the ground of his office after the same workers confiscated his chair. "After I ate the hearty soup so I wouldn't starve to death, I punched holes in the bottom with a screwdriver, tied them together with the twine, then gave one of the cans to Sandy [Davis, grad student] so we could talk about those essays I needed him to mark. Look, when I talk into the can and he holds it up to his ear, he can totally hear me! I think these will really help departmental communication."

The new plan, however, is not without its problems. The university had originally only provided cans, until professors in the Department of Physics complained that the admin's initial plan — which saw profs yelling into the can, sealing it quickly to contain the message, then running the can to the intended recipient and opening it — was both inefficient and scientifically impossible. The university begrudgingly added string to the scheme, which pushed its budget into the red for the next five years.

As well, the university has still not emphatically determined how professors who are further than several metres away from each other can

ANNOYED GRAD STUDENT

SPEAK UP! Hello? Hello? I still can't hear you! And we thought using gigantic tin cans would help.

utilize the new system.

Vice President (Facilities and Operations) Don Hickey commented to The Getaway by scribbling on a Denny's napkin, as his office can no longer afford paper.

"While this may seem incredibly unwieldy, it has so far cost us only $2 million and taken several hundred miles of colour-coded string to implement. And it was deemed more reliable than carrier pigeons, which kept getting sucked into the university's ventilation ducts. However, we're still dealing with some widespread interference problems, mostly due to unruly cats or smartasses with scissors."

Hickey added that the university considered giving instructors ham radios or access to the internet, but this proved unfeasible when they realized that most academics' offices were already without electricity.

However, Jason Reynolds, a professor of psychology who teaches a class of 500 students in the new CCIS building by shouting through a bullhorn, doesn't think the cutbacks have affected the quality of education.

"Sure, since we no longer have multiple choice answer sheets, all exams have to be orally administered, so I only have time to ask everyone a single yes/no question," said Reynolds. "But in such times of hardship, the university must re-evaluate its priorities. I mean, it would be nice to have heat in my broom closet, or teach kids about the brain. But when I think about how much money they've put into CCIS and how it'll improve our international stature, I think we can all put on another sweater and give our students all A+ or F based on a test of two choices."

"Instructors here should be thankful for the tin cans and strings," Reynolds added as he huddled near a flaming barrel. "Before that, profs had started paying for our own phones. But even then, it's not like we were paying $290 and getting nothing in return. I'm certainly glad this university still treats its professors with a higher level of dignity and respect than its students."

BEARLEAKS LAUNCHES

Thousands of confidential emails were accidentally sent to all members of campus this weekend after a new organization called Bearleaks broke in to servers and started a campus-wide release of information.

Weekend plans, people forwarding jokes, and Board of Governors Representative Craig Turner's admittance that he has killed several hobos and stuffed their bodies into the SUB elevator shafts were just some of the shocking revelations found within the email storm.

Some have heavily criticized Bearleaks, worried that the situation has shown how inept both students and faculty members can be. After an email went out to the entire mailing list, students quickly realized the opportunity for mass communication, unleashing a spam war and annoying thousands.

"Who is up for a party tonight?" asked a 5'4" blonde, pledging to be at The Rack. Another gave out her phone number, promising "a good time." Mysteriously, many simply chose to forward the phrase "the turkey has come home to roost."

But not all students enjoyed this new form of communication. Many tried desperately, but fruitlessly, to unsubscribe themselves from "the list."

As Bearleaks founder Julius Assengel explained when asked if there was any way to contain the leak, he cheerfully replied, "You can't control information. Pissing people off is what freedom is about."

Assengel is reportedly hiding in the Biological Sciences building after Campus 5-0 put out a city-wide arrest warrant for him following indecency charges.

—John Doe, News Leaker

YOUR STUDENTS' UNION PRESENTS

AWARDS & SCHOLARSHIPS

BASED ON CAMPUS & COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

GET APPLICATION FORMS AT

- InfoLink booths
- SFAIC (SUB 1-80)
- Residences
- Faculty offices
- The awards website

Whether you're a community volunteer or involved in campus life, you can apply for Students' Union awards and scholarships.

ALL STUDENTS CAN APPLY
AWARDS RANGE FROM $1000 – $2000

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Contact the
STUDENT FINANCIAL AID INFORMATION CENTRE

1-80 Students' Union Building
8900 114 Street
University of Alberta
Edmonton, AB T6G 2J7

PHONE (780) 492-3483
FAX (780) 492-9607
E-MAIL AWARDS@SU.UALBERTA.CA

Check out University of Alberta Students' Union Awards on Facebook for updates

Applications are due

JANUARY 21

2011 | 4:30PM

apply at
WWW.SU.UALBERTA.CA/AWARDS

Council censors CRO for perversity

RAD FURRY
Master of Obscenity

Students' Council voted unanimously Tuesday evening to censor Chief Returning Officer Jizz Ring after he made comments that councillors described as "perverted," "despicable," and "far past the line of basic human decency."

Ring was speaking in front of council after Councillor Numerous Cocks had accused the CRO of giving a raging endorsement to "None of the Above" on the election ballot by acknowledging the option's existence. After being thoroughly questioned about the palm-greasing Ring had received from "None of the Above" candidates, Ring suddenly snapped, unleashing a stream of utterly debased obscenities. The electoral officer's tirade apparently went on nearly 10 minutes, despite Speaker Oldman Bogdanský repeatedly telling him he was out of order, as the rest of council looked on in horror and took turns vomiting, both on the floor and on each other.

"It was quite simply the most degraded and sickening vocalization of human indecency I've ever heard," said Vice President (Hot Externally) Jaded Muffie, as he wiped vomit from the corners of his mouth and out of his hair. "We had no choice but to censor him. And, may I add, may God have mercy on his soul."

What probably did not help the council at all was the sweltering heat in the room and an excess of gym clothes and expired milk cartons left strewn around the chambers to fester.

Eventually, council managed to vote 25-0 to censor the CRO, with seven councillors abstaining after passing out. Following the meeting, Vice President (Need Cash Now? Tired of Waiting?) Rack Seximan asked for a stick of gum to get the taste of vomit out of his mouth. After a mint masking and wiping of upchuck onto his suit sleeve, Seximan struggled to describe the "tasteless debauchery" and "profound use of sickening words describing seepages from every orifice."

"I was thoroughly disturbed by Jizz's eruption."

ADEN MURPHY
HEAD BOY, SLYTHERIN

President Dick Nehod, who was both gaunt and pale, buried his head in his hands to hide his tears throughout the debate, while plugging his ears with council food. Other councillors weren't so lucky.

"When I heard what the CRO said, I was horrified and appalled," said councillor Tom L'Whiné, who was seen crying after the meeting and is currently seeking crisis counselling. "I can't repeat anything as it's too traumatic, but needless to say, I never thought the relations between a woman and a horse could be described in such detail, and with so many adjectives."

While the meeting was in-camera, The Getaway obtained transcripts that have been selectively redacted, to prevent obscenity charges.

"You ****_***** can go *****," Ring reportedly yelled. "And you better believe you could insert two. I'll ***** ***** *****. That's how you properly treat a cadaver. I bet you all *** **** and horse ***** ***** ***** ****, which wouldn't be hard; all you'd need was molasses, Vaseline, and about half an hour to spread ***** *****. If not, you could always smear ***** all over the faces of ***** and if that didn't work I bet your mothers double as ***** ***** golden ***** ***** like ***** soaked ***** with *****-riddled ***** *****er and carpet cleaning the ***** which I think is only legal in Thailand."

The complete transcript of comments ran for roughly 40 pages. Code of Conduct and public obscenity charges for the CRO are pending. He currently has been both gagged and barred from writing letters to newspapers.

Student response to the outburst has been mixed, with some students standing up for Ring's right to free speech.

"I've heard he made some trenchant points about inserting multiple animate and inanimate objects into various orifices, typically at the same time," said second-year student Kelly Johnson. "Plus, the whole 'smearing feces all over the place' thing; what better metaphor for how Students' Council has treated the CRO this year?"

The only person seemingly unaffected by Ring's comments was vanilla Board of Governors Representative Bland Churner, who emerged from the meeting with a creepy grin.

"I thought that was an interesting and productive meeting," Churner said somewhat disturbingly, licking his lips and wiping sweat off his brow. "I hope there are many more like it in the future."

Admin subjected to wings, extended exercise drills

PRANKS ♦ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

The week starts off with new staff members meeting at the Administration building, where they are checked in and their items are processed. Videos showed faculty being yelled at by various administrators.

"What do you mean, you only brought one small can of caviar, not two?" screamed Philly Snark, Vice President (Dolla Dolla Bills Y'all) to the dean of medicine, who is going into his first year. "Mistakes like that are going to make this weekend mildly difficult for you."

After the check-in, the new staffers are then taken away blindfolded to an unknown location for dinner, which turns out to be RATT's Tuesday night Wings special. There, videos show them being forced to eat food that is unintentionally disgusting.

"Nothing is added to the wings except copious amounts of salt and sauce," says Heidirker. "The sheer quantity causes many of the educators to develop horrible cases of the meatsweats."

The staff are then taken outside to run exercise drills. Video depicted President Indira Simbacircleoflife walking around the outer ring of the university calmly, as her limousine and butler followed behind her, with various other Vice Presidents constantly complimenting her.

Near the middle of the week, administrators are put through various physical gauntlets, such as having to sign their name to several important documents with a pencil, not a quill; lifting back-breaking loads of paper out of their inboxes; and having to toss heavy bags containing $290 wads of cash into trash receptacles, which are then set ablaze and rolled into the river valley.

One of the videos shows U of A Provost and Vice President (Book Learnin') Karl Spammrhein streaking through Quad holding cups of his own urine. If he spilled any urine out of the cups, he started over.

"Actually, that wasn't part of the ceremony. Karl just did that for kicks," Heidirker said.

Other incidents included Vice President (External "It's Complicated" Relations) Brenda Smoozeregal being forced into an undersized and uncomfortable Laz-E-Boy, without access to even a cut-rate personal masseuse.

At the end of the week, in the "Quaecumque Vera" ceremony, all prospective faculty members are paraded individually in front of the Board of Governors and told that they would not be hired. Then when they are all together, Heidirker asks them all who would like a half-million dollar contract. Everyone steps forward and signs.

The rituals are said to be some of the easiest tests faced by campus administrators in the country.

"I've definitely seen worse," said Minister of Panted Education Chub Mourner. "You should see what happens at the U of C. Many of them are forced to go several days without Evian."

While the student body was unsure how to react to the news of administrative hazing, what they could all agree on is that this information coming out looks very bad for the university.

CHRISTMAS EVE JUST GOT

RETARDED!!

SHIT'S GONNA GET

FUCKED UP!!

ARE YOU READY TO GET

JUST FUCKIN' SLAMMED, BRUH!!

HOSTED BY

BRAD

THE CIRCUMSTANCE

IT'S SLANTED 4CUZ WE CRAZY CHURY

STAR OF

"JERSEY WHORES"

IT'S ON TV, YOU GOTTA CARE ABOUT IT

POONION MALL

"It's a fucking meat market"

You fucks will pay anything to hang out with "celebrities"!

Regular tickets $50 | VIP Tickets $150 and a rimjob

Alas, I guess some things are sacred

THANKS TO EXCLUSIVE COPYRIGHT'S ANNOUNCEMENT that they would be burning books, magazines, students' assignments, and anything even resembling paper on campus this week, you will be glad to hear that all copies of this edition of The Getaway will be burned, including the ones in your hands. And not a moment too soon, I say! For some of the things of which comments have been made about in this edition should not have fun poked at them, in any way, shape, or disgustingly engorged form.

Exclusive Copyright's idea that people should not have access to things that may give them ideas they disagree with, like textbooks, is a bold one, and one that this society is slowly coming to accept. Thanks to the digital revolution, people's access to such filth, and the frequency with which they access it, is slowly increasing. Yet paradoxically, people's tolerance levels for such garbage is hurriedly decreasing. Therefore, we are entering a magic "Here Be Dragons" realm where nothing is sacred, yet everything is sacred; where the same person complaining about the lack of political correctness surrounding a dick joke they read are posting the exact same penises anonymously on an internet forum in the comfort of their own home. And I for one welcome this new societal norm.

We should not be allowed to say any of the things that we say in this paper that most people already shout regularly on the internet in the form of YouTube flames and Facebook status comments. I take issue with many of the word choices, jokes about genitalia, flagrant sex puns, inappropriate content, and general offensiveness that many people online with names like "lilfukka101" say regularly.

These are things that we simply must not speak of in public, like frank discussions about sex or swear words — both subjects that people have been aware of since junior high school but are sick of hearing about on a regular basis, other than when they speak with friends. I'm not a prude, but I believe students should not be able to discuss such issues due to the sensibilities of the people in the same mile radius as them. For god sakes, twentysomethings in the prime of their life could read this, not to mention old ladies and parents — perish the thought! After having six kids and several decades of life, these people would know nothing about sex nor have cursed. As well, there are also many clear problems associated with printing news stories in the same arena that features crude drawings by entirely different writers. All this together lends me to believe that Exclusive Copyright's idea of a world without pieces of paper where people can write things and sign their names so they can be complained to accordingly is a sound one.

So I say, down with such malarkey! Let the fires spread vigorously over all the books! A world where things will not be offensive or uncomfortable except over the largest mass connection of people in human history will be a fantastic world indeed!

YAWN KVETCH
Chief Offender 100

Spot five differences!

PERHAPS YOU'VE NOTICED SOMETHING A LITTLE different about this particular issue of your favourite campus publications — a few more swear words than usual, the frequent tasteless dick jokes, and way too many references to Catholic priests. Maybe you're already sitting down to pen a letter informing us of how deeply offended and outraged you are by our crass humour, blatant sexism, and general jackassery. Before you do, though, sit back, take a deep breath, and remember: this is all a joke.

Since time immemorial, the staff of this esteemed publication have taken the last issue of the year to make a lot of really terrible, offensive, and occasionally even vaguely humorous gags, poking fun at both ourselves and the past semester. So relax. We'll return you to your regularly scheduled newspaper in the new year.

Until then, merry fucking Christmas.

A. LICKS HEMP
They Pay Me To Be An Asshole

NEWSWORTHY FIGURES APPEAR IN PRINT

THIS IS A PHOTOGRAPH

whining TO THE eds

Latest profanities not the last straw

(RE: "89 per cent of undergrads have no idea how many fucks they don't give," Rimmin' Blackula, November Friday)

For far too long, you have allowed profanity to run free within your paper, so much so that I fear that all credibility has been thoroughly lost. When I read, in your latest issue, the rude report on the SU Council Forum that statet "yesterday's forum can best be summed up with the phrase 'dicks-a-plenty,'" I immediately closed the paper and picked up a Metro instead, secure in the knowledge that I would read absolutely nothing objectionable at all. If The Getaway wishes to earn back this particular reader, it will have to cut back on the tasteless, crass activity of making sordid jokes, and focus instead on reporting campus news without juvenile distractions. On that note, I refuse to acknowledge anthropomorphic dicks and douches as worthy protagonists in any genre. And how could a banana have a child, let alone be a single parent. I suggest that the author of Single Dad Banana sit through several biology courses and learn the proper reproductive cycle of Musa acuminata, then come back and write a scientifically sound comic.

I have been reading every issue since I arrived here, and twice a week, I pick up a new copy just so that I can get mad at you. You never write what I want you to write, and I'm getting quite tired of it all. Perhaps next week you shall do the right thing, and produce a paper on par with some of the other free dailies that I relentlessly read, but I sincerely doubt it. I imagine that a necessary precursor to such a transformation would be that you all get laid and grow up.

DAVID SCHWATZINSKY LICHUK
Arts VII

Lame pedophile jokes bringing down quality

(RE: "See's alternative hugging advice is full of shit," Bryan Orange Grove, Blue Monday)

One thing that your paper is sorely lacking is the presence of intelligent and highbrow jokes about pedophiles. Don't grasp at the lazy, low-hanging fruit of Michael Jackson when there are far more interesting convicted offenders available.

If you are looking for an entertainer, then how about this: "the news about Indira was more shocking than the contents of Gary Glitter's computer." If you're looking for edgy, why not try "the content of the Wikileaks documents is more abhorrent than Josef Fritzl's basement." And finally, "the actions of the senator would certainly earn a stamp of approval from Joseph Monteleone Jr." What you've done with these examples is you've challenged your readers to think a little harder about laughing. Should they laugh at all? Do they recognize the name? If so, has enough time passed? And if they do indeed laugh, are they able to feel superior to most other people because they are smart enough to have understood your joke?

Please try harder, guys.

TED KLAUDT
Prison IV

from THE spam folder

Looking for loves in all the wrong places

RE: ("SU execs go to Colombia, get massive raise," Andrea Laxitive, February 2020)

Hello I have become interested in your dialogue. I think that you too have become interested mine in dialogue. I in the letter, send the. And as would like to see your photo. I think that my photo, it is pleasant to you. And as, I think that that we can find the general interests with you.

I think what conveniently to communicate with the help e-mail. I think that you will answer me to continue on dialogue. If you are younger than 40 years old, I will not answer to you. I wait your photos, and yours the answer.

SVETLANA
Russian Wives'R Us

Because this totally seems legit

RE: ("I hate the internet," Nobody Important, Sometime Last Week)

It has come to our attention that your email has been using an unauthorized amount of megagigs, and has not passed our inspection/update process. We are currently upgrading our database and e-mail tubes to increase their capacity for sending completely legitimate e-mails. To do this, we are deleting all webmail email account to create more gigarams for new accounts because we can totally do that.

This revision is mandatory as a result of our recent server transfigurations. Failing to comply will result in the inability to send and receive your mails, and a complete de-rezzing of your account. Also, e-mail will not be equipped with the latest anti-virus and anti-spam system in our new servers. This will make your email and PC vulnerable to viruses from the internet, as well as shit tons of emails selling $20 Rolexes and ways to make "an elephant out of your ant."

We're not fucking around.

CUSTOMER CARE TEAM
Warning Code: ID67565434

Letters to the editor shouldn't be sent to letters@getaway.ualberta.ca, because we will not be printing them. You can send letters if you really want, but we will not be reading them.

OMG, abstinence only! Sex is bad!

FATHER
BRADLEY
O'CHURCH &
SISTER ALISON
MCCHAPEL

We come before you today to talk about one of our favourite activities. As repented sinners, we want to get on our knees and beg for forgiveness. When we see the youth of today talking about sex toys and masturbation, we want to reach out and grab them hard. We like to get together with a large group of boys and girls in a small room, where the energy is really high, and someone might be inspired to shout, "Oh my God!"

We're talking, of course, about the sexless virgin orgy. What else do you do with a big group of people? We would say, play a lot of trust exercises. But if we want more intimate contact, there's always games of patty cake — with protection, of course. Oven mitts give the sensation of skin-to-skin contact, but without the transmission of many surface-borne infections. Oven mitt high five!

Remember, the only humping that goes on at a sexless orgy will be Bible thumping! Drop to your knees and open wide to receive some Holy Spirit.

The only person to disrobe is Father Bradley O'Church, when he gets into his casual clothes. Remember, the only humping that goes on at a sexless orgy will be Bible thumping! Drop to your knees and open wide to receive some Holy Spirit. We'll start by assuming the missionary position, so grab a hold of your Bible, because the only thing we'll be raising about your head is your spirits. The only thing you'll have to put your fingers inside are promise rings and the only conceptions will be immaculate. We will start with some deep breathing and then focus on our tantric abstinence.

Our rosaries stay around our necks and only one pair of lips shall touch them. These sexless orgies will light your fire, much like how early Christians were lit up by the Greeks. The only whoring in this room will be that of Mary Magdalene in the Bible. We have spontaneous baptisms that leave everyone wet. There will only be Jesus-loving here, allowing for clean orgies, not like those sultry synagogues or tempting temples. When our holy juices have been spent, we'll replenish ourselves with some juice, cookies, and storytime.

FREELINESOFCOKE

Have something offensive you need to share with the rest of the world? You're an asshole, but email us at freelinesofcoke@getaway.ualberta.ca and we'll give you a forum for your bullshit.

any furrries on campus want to start a new student group? yiff yiff!

to the girl ive been following back home from bio 108: why won't you open your dorm room door?

Guy on the late bus
your dandruff is like snowflakes
dont sit next to me

let's write three lines free next week in iambic pentameter for the guy who sits behind the girl in the wednesday evening class: oh my god i like you too! and asking me out anonymously in public was so much more romantic than if you'd asked me in person! Yes!

lolcatz is gettin' bored wit ur tifs.

I hate my English class. Why do i have to read all these books!

to the guy checking ID at RATT: if I can grow a beard like this at 17, I think I've more than earned a drink you guys why do you keep talking about barbra streisand? I don't get it

if a font dont got curly serifs, it aint worth printing on toilet paper

oh my god im so lonely

the girl who told me to watch my mouth in the library, shut the fuck up.

what is brad chury

the microwaves in cab, sub and huball suck. i can't figure out what buttons to press!

hey everyone let's submit TLFs about boobs for next week cuz they rule!!

i am personally offended by the content of this newspaper

dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks dicks. thank you.

enmay atcay derstandunay igpay atinlay.

hey, why did you have to go and call the cops? if you didn't want pictures taken, you should have closed the blinds.

O happy dagger! This is thy sheath; there rust, and let me die.

hey, what's ur a/s/l?

Dear Getaway staff: I'd have sex with all of you. At the same time.

I swallowed a whole coke bottle.

The third floor of Cameron Library is a silent floor. Let's fuck shit up.

The girls (women's studies majors?) who post the "Smile - you're beautiful" signs in the bathroom are probably ugly.

Campus needs more ghost stories. I'm gonna have to murder some people.

Fuck you, left-handed people. I sit at your desks just to get on your nerves.

For christmas, my girlfriend gave me syphilis.

I'm not a know-it-all, the rest of you are just idiots.

comic sans ftw!!!!

Couple having sex on the couch in SUB: thanks for the show!

hey prof - i'll have sex with you if you give me an A. i don't see how you're gonna get any otherwise.

Why was I abstinent in elementary school? I could have had so much more fun if I'd started early.

sending passive aggressive notes to people via three line free is the most effective way of dealing with my problems.

also, vaginas.

The Getaway reserves the right to refuse publication of any submission it deems insufficiently racist, sexist, hateful, libellous, or just generally not offensive enough. The Getaway will probably rewrite your submission to make it funny. Submissions should be three lines, but we can't count, so whatever.

THE HOLY COMMANDMENTS

- Thou shalt keep your eyes closed whilst receiving communion from Father Bradley O'Church.
- Whilst side-hugging, thou must allow for room for the Holy Spirit
- Thou shalt not covet thy orgy partner's prayer devices.
- Thou shalt not employ a carved device in any non-Church-sanctioned orgy.
- The only glory holes shalt be in the confessional.
- The Sabbath shalt be marked by self-reflection, to give members a chance to rest wrists from praying and give Bibles a chance to dry out.
- Only take the Lord's name when the urge becomes overwhelming; thou must warn thy partner about the incoming Holy Spirit shower.
- Thou shalt not bear witness of the events of the sexless orgy to any childcare official, police officer, or person of authority outside the Church.
- Thou shalt ensure that thy urges stay between thyself and God.
- Thou shalt not have physical contact of hands without protection of oventh mittenths.

GOOD LUCK ON YOUR EXAMS!

Your Library. Your Space.

University of Alberta Libraries

NEED A BREAK?

COFFEE'S ON US!

Monday, December 13	8:00 am	John W Scott Library
Tuesday, December 14	12:00 noon	Bibliothèque Saint-Jean
Tuesday, December 14	5:00 pm	Rutherford Library
Tuesday, December 14	6:00 pm	Weir Library
Wednesday, December 15	10:00 am	Winspear Library
Wednesday, December 15	1:00 pm	Coutts Library
Wednesday, December 15	5:00 pm	Cameron Library
Friday, December 17	7:00 pm	Augustana Campus Library

For library locations visit: www.library.ualberta.ca/librarylocations.pdf

UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA
LIBRARIES

The gentlemanly art of catcalling

LORD SIR
SNIFFINGTON
III, ESQ.

Now, I am not normally one to publicly complain about this, that, or, indeed, the other. But I have been made aware of one particular matter by a very esteemed colleague of mine, about which I simply cannot remain silent. Namely, that catcalling in some way makes a gentleman such as myself a “dickhead.”

First and foremost, I must cordially object to that term, as it is the most vulgar conflation of male genitalia with the glorious visage of a high-class nobleman such as yours truly. Furthermore, my head is not phallic, nor composed of phalluses. One might as well be comparing the sphincters of swine with the delicate and refined hands of our most distinguished and honourable monarch, Queen Elizabeth II. Now, there is a lady to whom one can confidently make sexual advances toward in public!

But to return to the matter of those very catcalls, I do implore you to be not insulted, but profoundly honoured. If I were to take some extraordinarily lengthy seconds out of my busy day to call out, “You there, on the street! Your breasts appear as pliable as the workers at my clothing factory in Argentina,” please take that as nothing more than the sincerest compliment. I simply want to get across the degree to which I admire your milk white bosom and how I would very much enjoy motor-boating my face within it.

However, while I believe our casual passing relationship could have proceeded more smoothly, it was quite uncouth to refer to me as a “fucking creepy piece of shit.” I do not intend to make you feel uncomfortable or afraid — far from it! I wish only to make it known to you that a remarkably attractive gentleman is extremely open to the possibility that you and he might engage in the fantastic activity of sexual intercourse.

Furthermore, if I were to take out my, dare I say, penis and show it to you, I only do so in order for you to properly inspect it for length, girth, and turgidity, for I see no other way that you could otherwise make an informed and rational decision regarding the possibility of sexual relations.

I can assure you, dear madam, that “terrifically ample” could not even begin to describe the magnitude of my sexual prowess. Not only do I strongly suspect that I boast the largest manhood in the city, but moreover, I am incredibly proficient mechanistically and I promise to make you aware of this on the street. Ladies across the country can vouch for my excellent performance in the bed chambers. My guarantee to you, prospective sexual partner, is that if you retain the ability to walk when morning dawns, you shall receive another round at absolutely no charge.

Perhaps the objection that I must consider when defending the fine, gentlemanly art of the catcall, is that it is simply not welcome upon the streets. But, if not the streets, then where? Am I to whistle or honk in the confines of my own Victorian home? Am I to degrade myself by entering one of these downright proletariat “clubs?” Blasphemy! I absolutely refuse! No, the streets are where I — if you understand the metaphor — roll. They are the property of the public, and I therefore submit to you that I am entirely free to exercise my freedom of speech therein.

However — and herein lies the full thrust of my stunning destruction of my opponent’s arguments — the detractors describe such behavior as “harassment.” Well, I ask you, is not the call for me to relinquish my freedom of speech not harassment itself? A-ha, I cry triumphantly, for we have upon our hands a self-defeating argument. For it is a right, not a privilege, to comment on a lady’s silken ankles and note how beautiful she’d be if they happened to be behind her head. Would you take that away in the name of freedom? Would you lead our fine society down the slippery road of censorship?

I certainly pray not, I shall paint for you a harrowing picture of just one possible future. Imagine, if you will, that first, they came for the stalkers, and I didn’t speak up, because I only stalked casually; then, they came for the voyeurs, and I didn’t speak up, because using binoculars doesn’t count; then, they came for the catcallers, and I didn’t speak up, because it was simply a supportive gesture regarding the elegance of her tramp stamp. Then they came for me. Is that a future we desire? Heavens, no! The very principles upon which this great country was founded demand my freedom to catcall without being harassed about it

I need to be kept in line

STRAWBERRY
SHORTCAKE

Whoa, wait a sec — who said I was against child abuse? Facebook users all over the world have come together to end child abuse by changing their photographs to pictures of cartoons. But when did I ever sign up for this? We need to stop, you guys. There’s a real chance that it might succeed and as I, Strawberry Shortcake, have been a cartoon child for over 30 years, I can tell you that physical smacks are the only thing that has kept me in line. I break rules all the time, and the only way that I know what’s right and wrong is when a responsible adult punishes me.

Did you ever see my adventure in Season 2, Episode 12, “Legend of the Lost Treasure?” Well, me and my friends became mermaids. We had so much fun swimming around the sea, looking for the lost treasure. It was just a delight! We all got so greedy that we didn’t care that the Sea Beast had already found the treasure, so we tried to steal it. The Sea Beast wanted all the gold for herself, so when we got too close, she hit Blueberry Muffin so hard that she was seeing double Rainbow Sherberts. We learned not to steal treasure from its rightful owners, believe you me!

Then there was Apple Dumplin’s dream in Season 2, Episode 22, “Baby Takes The Cake.” We were mean to her when she tried to help us with baking because she was terrible. But then she had a dream where she was in charge, and we were getting in her way. We were a big handful, and Apple Dumplin’ learned the lesson that sometimes you have to be mean to other people when they aren’t helping. She slapped us so hard in that dream that we peed our pants in real life! Which led to me being thrown over my dad’s knee and given a good hide tanning with his belt, because that’s bad and makes a mess!

Or that other time in Season 1, Episode 2, “Strawberry Shortcake in Big Apple City,” where I got invited all the way to Big Apple City to compete in the Big Bake-Off with my shortcake recipe. But Pie Man was the other finalist! I won, but only because I got the help of all my new friends that I made in the city. After we were done filming though, Pie Man caught up to me while I was walking home and walloped me good for cheating. I tried to give him a talk about the value of friendship, but he wouldn’t stop hitting me. I was wrong of course, I know that now. I should have known better to have involved all of my friends when he only had himself.

So, in closing, please, keep children in line. It’s the only way that we learn. And don’t be afraid to take it too far. Spanking, shaking, caging: all are useful methods. Experiment with other things like manual labour, as well. I definitely learned more from when my dad made me break rocks than anything I ever learned from my adventures. When a punishment becomes routine, it doesn’t mean anything any more.

And for Lime Chiffon’s sake, change back your Facebook picture. I can’t tell Sour Grapes from Plum Puddin’ anymore.

THE CUL-DE-SAC

DAMN KIDS, GET OFF MY LAWN. Can’t these ignorant little rascals let me enjoy a sunny day in the neighbourhood? I just want to enjoy my prune juice and creamed corn outside in my pajamas. This cul-de-sac has gotten overrun by little scallywags running about and chasing each other and playing skophotch with their iPods or whatever those silly antics are. I can’t even take a walk without getting hassled by these rapscllions. How am I supposed to get to the park and masturbate?

Look at that group of scroungy kids over there, playing their new-fangled street hockey. What in tarnation do they think they’re doing? Useless tykes! I’d run ‘em all over in my Riviera if the coppers didn’t take away my license. Not like that’ll stop me.

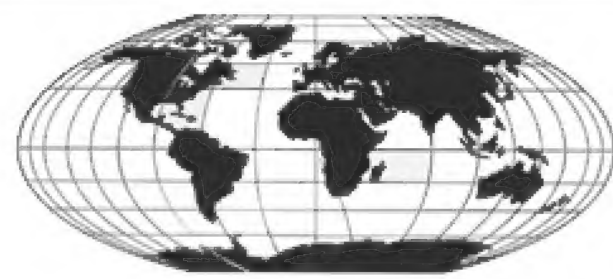

I remember the good ol’ days when parents kept their kids working in the mines. When I was a young lad I spent my Sunday afternoons cutting the damn lawn. And not with your fancy automatic lawn machinery; I had to use a pair of blunt scissors. These kids need a proper whipping. When I was a young’un, I got the belt lashin’ every day, and that kept me in line. Those belts would make my ass so sore I couldn’t sit for a week. And I got them every damn day.

Ugh, where’s my Viagra?

MARTY MCFARTEERSON

The Cul-de-Sac is a semi-regular feature where we let a random old dude bitch about how much he hates today’s youth.

Teach English Abroad

TESOL/TESL Teacher Training Certification Courses

- Intensive 60-Hour Program
- Classroom Management Techniques
- Detailed Lesson Planning
- ESL Skills Development
- Comprehensive Teaching Materials
- Interactive Teaching Practicum
- Internationally Recognized Certificate
- Teacher Placement Service
- Money-Back Guarantee Included
- Thousands of Satisfied Students

LSAT MCAT GMAT GRE Preparation Seminars

- Complete 30-Hour Seminars
- Convenient Weekend Schedule
- Proven Test-Taking Strategies
- Experienced Course Instructors
- Comprehensive Study Materials
- Simulated Practice Exams
- Limited Class Size
- Free Repeat Policy
- Personal Tutoring Available
- Thousands of Satisfied Students

OXFORD SEMINARS

OXFORD SEMINARS
1-800-269-6719/604-683-3430
www.oxfordseminars.ca

1-800-269-6719
604-683-3430
www.oxfordseminars.ca

PLEASE READ:
A personal appeal from
Getaway Managing Editor Justin Bell
on thegetawayonline.ca

SAVAGE in LIMBO

* by JOHN PATRICK SHANLEY *

DECEMBER 2–11, 2010

TICKETS $5–$20
Available at the Timms Box Office and TIX on the Square
www.studiotheatre.ca

UNIVERSITY of ALBERTA
TIMMS CENTRE for the ARTS

social outercourse

Abstinence Hour with Bristol Palin

Starring her son Tripp
Saturday, December 11 at 4 p.m.
Wasilla Lounge (You can see Russia from here!)

$10 for sluts, $12 everyone else

After the “oops heard round the world” in early 2008, Bristol Palin is reminding young singles that the only possible way to avoid pregnancy and STIs is to never, ever, ever have sex and to immediately quell any sinful urges with frigid cold showers and repeated punches to the baby maker. She will elucidate the absolutely foolproof nature of this plan while explaining why birth control fails 200 per cent of the time and leads to blindness, rectal bleeding, voting Democrat, genital cancer, and dry mouth. Her inspirational speech will conclude with the bombing of an abortion clinic and a condom bonfire. Bring marshmallows.

Campus for Christie

With Christie Simmons
Every Friday at 4 p.m.
CAB 265

$Can you really put a price on salvation?

Christie Simmons wants to give you a weekly reminder that dating before marriage is sexual harassment, and having sex for any reason other than procreation is rape. Fact. The only way to avoid being a rapist is to beg for forgiveness for that one time you opened the Sears catalogue to the underwear section and rubbed one out to a plain brunette in high-waisted, nude-coloured briefs. Campus for Christie will begin with a prayer circle for Getaway editors, who are probably too perverted and debauched to save anyway. Juice boxes, cookies, and guilt to follow.

Promise Ring Par-tay

Featuring DJ Don't Diddle
Saturday, December 25 at 7 p.m.
DinWOODie Lounge (SUB)

$15 and a tube sock

There's no better venue in which to keep your damn dirty paws to yourself than a box social. Once again, the U of A is bringing back the tremendously unpopular dance in which participants must keep a bare minimum of three Bible lengths between each other at all times. Traditionally, it's also the time of year when you try to talk your best gal into anal since “it doesn't count as sex,” and c'mon, it's Christmas.

The Girls of St. Orgina Catholic High School Warblers

With Mascot Lubey The Abstinence Parrot
December 7 — IT'S HAPPENING RIGHT NOW!
The change in your pocket for Students
Pocket Fluff for Seniors

Fresh from their stint at the Ain't-Got-Woodstock, these sensational singing sirens are ready to bring their own brand of feel-good hymns and ballads on the benefits of respectful hand-holding at public events. Decked out in short tartan skirts, taut-yet-firm pigtails, crosses nestled within their barely-visible cleavage, and tight white tops that go sheer in the breeze, the girls have promised to bring their hit singles “Your Love Is My Communion Wafer” and “The Magic Threesome Of God” to an open-air concert in the middle of Quad. It's nipple-perkin' fun!

Social Outercourse is a regular feature in which Getaway writers find abstinence-friendly events on campus where you can meet others with inexplicably hairy palms.

TOTAL STUD & DIJON RETARD
Whoa, whoa. We do not hook up.

HARDCORE BLACK METAL BAND ACTUALLY JUST DARKLY COMIC

slapstomppreview

Carpathian Pestilence

With Nütoniän Fizicks
Thursday, December 9 at 7 p.m.
Your mom's house (10870 Granti Rd.)
$25 at the door
$10 for students with ID and a frozen turkey

ZONKS MCGEE
Farts and Blentertainment Gaff

It would be an understatement to say that Norwegian black metal band Carpathian Pestilence sits at the extreme end of the metal spectrum.

“The violence you see onstage is real, as hard as it is to believe,” said guitarist Ulrick Demonass. “From smacking each other with frying pans to stepping on rakes that have been placed around the stage, we promise to push the envelope of carnage and bloodshed.”

The band has come under attack by various parent groups, who claim that children will be influenced to commit senseless acts of violence by the group's music, such as jumping through plate glass windows and running full speed at brick walls. As well, Carpathian Pestilence's music was pulled from Walmart in the United States after a 2007 case in which two 16-year-old boys slapped each other to death over a period of 18 hours. However, Carpathian Pestilence bassist Hadespunk defended their right to freedom of expression.

“We simply like to discuss ominous and brutal topics in our music. Just because we put slipknotted ropes around the stage — that snag Demonass' ankle and wackily pulls him up into the rafters as the sandbag tied to the other end of the rope drops to hit me on the head — that doesn't mean we support children attempting the same stunt. It's all done for entertainment.”

Demonass then grabbed Hadespunk's nose

before bonking him on the head, causing him to make a “whoop whoop whoop” sound, before he retaliated by grabbing Demonass' ear and bopping him in the stomach.

Carpathian Pestilence, described by Revolver magazine as “brutally hardcore and vaguely vaudevillian,” is currently on tour to support their latest release, And Mephisto Screamed Whoop Whoop Whoop, a followup to their 2006 release Lucifer's Stooges. The album deals with such dark topics such as murder by lemon meringue, attempted goat sacrifice that ends with the goat kicking them in the face, and the highly controversial song “Suicide Dunk Tank Solution,” a song about a close friend of Demonass' who barely survived falling abruptly into a vat of water at a carnival. The album's first single “Throwing a Broomstick through Satan's Spokes” recently topped the European charts.

“From smacking each other with frying pans to stepping on rakes that have been randomly placed around the stage, we promise to push the envelope of carnage and bloodshed.”

ULRICK DEMONASS
GUITARIST, CARPATHIAN PESTILENCE

Now the band is trekking across North America on their worldwide “Why I Oughta Slap The Blood Gods Silly” tour that, according to Demonass, has the band going to new heights of violence, degradation, and visceral shocks.

“I cannot give away too many details, but what I can tell you is that for ‘Blindfold Curse,’ our custom stage will not only have rakes and anvils everywhere, but there will also be randomly placed holes covered in black mats,” Deamonass said. “Then once we're done hitting each other over the head with wiffle bats, we transition into ‘Bumble of the Beast,’ where a roadie comes out and tosses a blanket over top of Hadespunk, then hits him in the shin with a shovel. This typically sends him flailing straight into the pyrotechnics as they explode, lighting him ablaze and causing him to stage dive into the crowd, which usually moves away to let him hit the ground.”

A cross-country carnal feast of zaniness, Carpathian Pestilence had their new tour banned in both Massachusetts and Winnipeg after they announced they added sound effects.

“We thought that was ridiculous. When I swing across the stage on a rope to take out Hadespunk, and he ducks out of the way just in time for me to miss him, sending me crashing through the entire drum kit, why is it offensive to add a ‘Boing!’ sound, or even a sad trombone?”

But the band doesn't let such obstacles slow them down. In fact, they're working on a live concert DVD during this tour. After the footage has been shot, it will be given a sepia tone and the video will be reduced to 18 frames per second, but sped up two-fold. The black metal will also be silenced in favour of duelling pianos, and any lyrics will come up in independent frames to be read on screen.

“We really feel this DVD will bring the Carpathian Pestilence experience into the homes of our fans, who we call The Knuckleheads,” said Demonass, as he tested an aspect of the new stage, opening a simulated car door prop just as Hadespunk was riding by on a bicycle, causing him to go somersaulting over top. “Whether we're dragging each other across bar counters through pint glasses, smashing Victorian portraits over each other's heads, or getting a top hat pulled down over our eyes so we go stumbling about, it's clear that Carpathian—”

Demonass was interrupted when he had to put his hand across the bridge of his nose, as Hadespunk tried to poke him in the eye. Most bands only act like they're this hardcore, but Carpathian Pestilence lives it.

Kinect offers alternative to domestic abuse

Happy Marriage will allow players to practice beer chugging, divorce proceedings

Kinect Happy Marriage
Developed and Published by Domestic Bliss
Now Available for Xbox 360

TYRONE SASSY CAT
Where the fuck is that accent from?

A new collection of mini games for the Xbox 360 Kinect from new developer Domestic Bliss claims to revolutionize the entire genre. Titled Kinect Happy Marriage, the game is aimed at any couple looking to strengthen their relationship by getting any feelings of resentment out in a virtual setting. It's designed with two players in mind, the approach that they take being to put the male and female players in dynamic, never-before-seen roles in the modern family to test their relationship.

Men will find themselves leading games like "Why's My Fridge Got No Beer?" The aim is to yell loudly at the microphones, demanding your wife stock your chosen brand of beer. Then, when the fridge is full, the player must quickly simulate chugging them down as fast as he can. The man wins the game if he manages to empty the fridge faster than his wife can restock it. If she can't, the two players get into a fight, which the players can take part in. Eventually, the avatar wife accidentally pushes the angry husband down a flight of stairs and flees the house.

But that's not all. There's also a driving simulator called "No Directions." The player acts as the man driving around the city, and the woman must try to figure out the right way to hold the map up. If the man can find his destination before the woman scores enough map points to demand that he stop for directions, he wins. If he can't, the player loses, and is forced to listen to several minutes of incessant nagging from his virtual spouse before returning to the gas station that was several miles back.

Meanwhile, "Make Me a Sandwich" puts the woman in the kitchen, testing her culinary talents.

The male must grunt his idiotic monosyllabic instructions to her, and player two, as the wife, must attempt to interpret them and produce the perfect sandwich. If she manages to correctly assemble the man's sandwich of choice, she wins, allowing her to first watch the husband try to make his own sandwich while laughing, then get the opportunity to move to the next level and attempt to bake a pie.

The other minigames were much slower, with "Hands Off My Thermostat" and "Half My Possessions Gone In The Settlement" both being rather tiresome. A description is hardly needed for the most risqué minigame, "I've Got a Headache Bedroom Escapades."

Unfortunately, despite the minigame's clear artistic merits, the sexual content has earned Kinect Happy Marriage a rating of M. Gamers under 18 will unfortunately have to wait to experience this bold marriage simulator, as players are forced to shout into the Kinect, which then analyzes their voices to determine age and maturity.

The game is not without its flaws. Some criticize the heteronormativity of the game, calling for the inclusion of LGBT relationships, saying that verbal domestic abuse can also occur in their relationships as equally as it can in heterosexual ones.

As well, the game suffers some difficulty with the controls. Kinect is still in the early stages of development, and sometimes things just don't work like they should.

In "No Directions," my girlfriend was constantly reading the map correctly. I think that there are some balance issues there.

Also, in "Why's My Fridge Got No Beer?" the game had a few detection issues, with my avatar grabbing Pilsner despite my multiple attempts to grab an MGD.

Finally, I got too frustrated to continue when I failed to drink my virtual beer and my avatar instead embraced my partner and apologized for the horrible fight that happened the night before. This is not what should be expected from a game that is trying to simulate the more interesting parts of the domestic relationship. But at least it's better than that raft game.

datereview
An Evening with Charlie Sheen
Sans Cocaine
ABC Records

TOTAL STUD
Bluffin' with her muffin

Carli Robinson, a high-priced adult escort, is coming forward after an incident involving actor Charlie Sheen that she describes as "kind of rude." Robinson, who was hired by Sheen, says he took her to a fine dining establishment, recited poetry by John Keats, paid the bill, left a generous gratuity, and reportedly returned her to her Los Angeles condominium no later than 10 p.m.

"I felt so terribly misled," said Robinson. "I invited him in and he told me he 'didn't want to rush things' or 'pressure me into anything.' Then he gave me a closed mouth kiss on my hand, asked for my number, and hurled flattering compliments at me as he drove away."

"Not once did I feel even vaguely unsafe or did he try to fondle me," she added tearfully.

Sheen's representatives confirmed the report, and added that the actor would be seeking treatment in a group counselling centre that had many successful graduates, such as Ike Turner and Bobby Brown.

A spokesperson from ABC, the network that airs Sheen's inexplicably popular show Two and Half Jokes, says that ABC is "100 per cent committed to Sheen's recovery," and is prepared to massively inconvenience the entire remaining cast and crew to change the production schedule and keep the program on the air. As punishment to both Sheen and everyone who owns a television, Sheen has been ordered to do 57 more seasons.

U OF A TUITION,
MEET THE CREDIT CARD.
AGAIN.

Want to pay your tuition with your credit card again?
You now have the opportunity to do so.

Pay4u is a new service created for the students by the students. We understand your needs. And we are bringing back the option of credit card tuition payments to add convenience to your life.

We believe that giving you a choice is giving you back your freedom. So enjoy your freedom. Let pay4u work for you!

Find out more on our website at www.pay4unow.ca

Reward yourselves Bears and Pandas

pay4u

www.pay4unow.ca

Here at the Getaway, we pride ourselves on the quantity and quality of dick jokes we make on a regular basis. Sadly, that leaves the noble vagina sorely wanting for attention. Thus, Beavember: our salute to the beaver, in all its glory.

World shocked by Gaga's sartorial choice

TIM GLUM

Fashion Smashion Commentary

Lady Gaga shocked the nation once again last Thursday with her daring and controversial fashion choices.

The massively prominent sensation showed up to last weekend's Hollywood Gala Fundraiser Premiere For Awareness Regarding Knowledge Initiatives wearing a dress made entirely out of woven cotton fabrics. To that wacky ensemble, she added a handbag and shoes that came in complimentary colours, and a hairstyle that leading Italian design experts are calling a complicated motif known as "the bun."

Seconds after she set her casual flat loafer on the red carpet, the Internet was instantly set ablaze, with prominent pop culturists immediately speculating on what cause célèbre she was promoting with her latest outfit, which had already been preemptively banned from appearing on the covers of 12 magazines and invited to be featured on 14 others.

"I'm absolutely positively 100 per cent sure she's protesting a cotton-picking strike," said political fashion blogger Ned Snook. "I didn't even know there was one underway, but clearly it's something we need to be irate about on Twitter. Or perhaps something about elections in Iran. Either way, all I know is I should be MySpacing this shit right now, so out of my way."

"I like the dress. It's comfortable," says Gaga, who likely meant to say that the high thread count of the material was a symbol of the high unemployment rate of gay polygamist teenage lesbian murder victims, or whatever it was that she held that benefit concert for last month. That, of course, followed the night she raised awareness for emotionally abused Norwegian

SYMBOLIC FROCK Lady Gaga was spotted wearing a dress made entirely out of cocks to symbolize her stance on Don't Ask Don't Tell. "Until you can wear your heart on your sleeve in the military, I will wear dicks on my dress," she said.

puppies with terminal whisker cancer by wearing a pantsuit embroidered with the words "Help, I'm Trapped In An Embroidery Factory."

Gaga's radical clothing selection for the evening shocked all attendees of the event, causing every single other invitee to leave en masse and return 15 minutes later in even zanier outfits, in an attempt to dethrone the current Empress of the Exotic. "She's raising the bar for all of us," said Taylor Swift, who was clad in a Dior gown knitted entirely from Justin Bieber's hair.

"I feel like she's an icon in the music industry," continued Swift, "that I can draw from, and be inspired by. I just want to go and start a short but fiery relationship with her that will leave me in tears and poised to write yet another hit breakup single." She was interrupted here by Kanye West, which didn't actually happen, but all conversations with Ms. Swift are now contractually obligated to end with that reference, so that writers no longer need to find new punchlines.

Gaga's record label, GooGoo For Gaga Productions, has already cancelled and re-signed the deal for her upcoming record The Fame Whore three times today. But sources from a tweet sent as this sentence is being typed say that the deal is again off.

Glee hires a hetero, nation reels in shock

tv sucks lately

Glee: Season Three

Introducing Trip Skittles

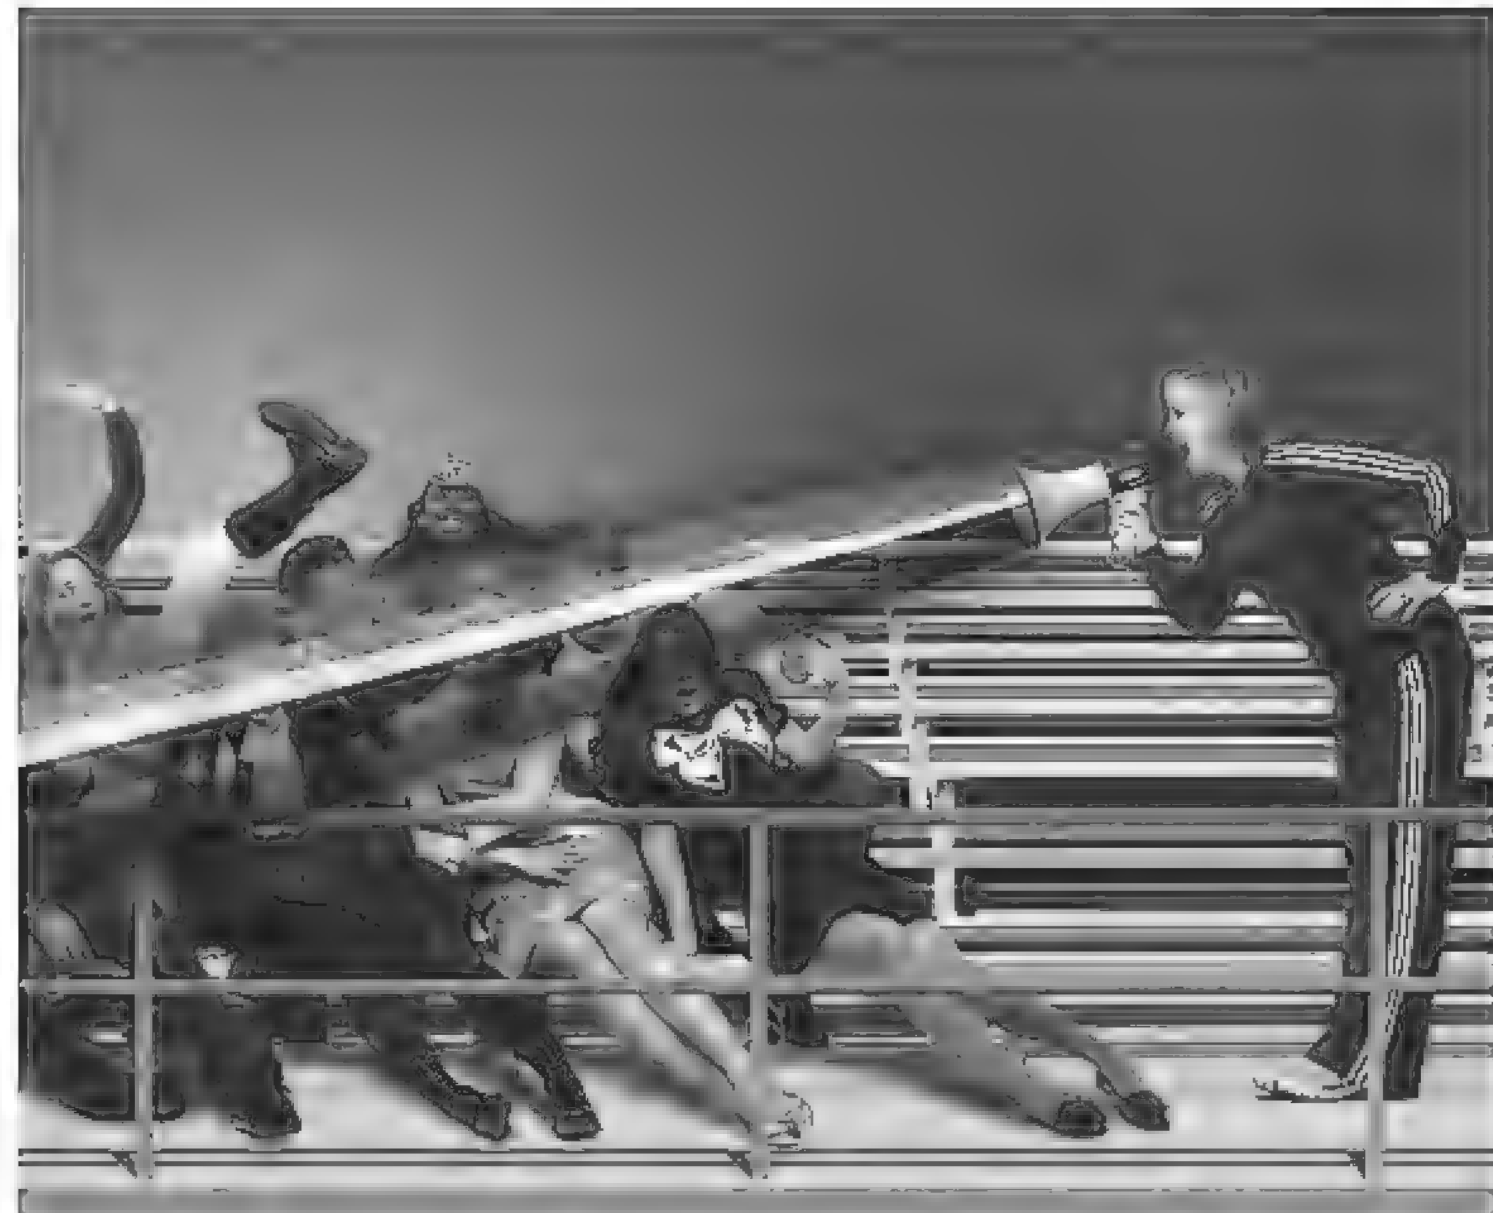

THE SIXTH BEACH BOY

Kokomo: get there fast & take it slow

As the cast and crew of Glee begin production on their third season, rumours are circulating that they will be "pushing boundaries" and "challenging societal norms" by introducing something the musical drama has never before seen: a heterosexual character. When questioned by media about the bold move, producer Ted Schlep answered that there was "absolutely nothing tokenistic about hiring him."

"It's a widely unreported statistic that nine out of 10 Americans are actually straight," says Schlep. "When you think about it that way, you probably have a straight neighbour or two. The man who bags your groceries might struggle with lust for the ladies. It could be anyone, anywhere, and it's important to recognize that people are born straight and must be treated equally."

Newcomer Barracuda Schlenger will play Trip Skittles, high school chess captain and latest addition to the glee club. The third season's story arc will follow Skittles' tortuous struggle with his sexuality and discrimination, as he is forced to sing alto because of his burly, masculine voice.

MAN MCSMECKERY

"It's really important to me that I don't just become a cardboard stereotype," says Skittles. "I mean, I want to represent the heterosexual community to the best of my ability without being defined by my lackluster fashion sense, affinity for pick-up trucks, and strong wrists."

PFLOSS (Parents & Friends of the League Of Straight Studs), an organization for those grappling with "being hetero," expressed their support for the show.

"It's a fact that the not-gay population is drastically underrepresented in musical theatre television dramas," said spokesperson Felice Shayo. "Just because you prefer to put your P into a V, it doesn't mean you don't deserve the same rights as every other fabulously coordinated man in theatre."

Parliament of Canada

Become a Parliamentary Guide

Give guided tours of Parliament

Apply online!

Deadline: Friday January 14, 2011

2011

LIBRARY of PARLIAMENT
BIBLIOTHÈQUE du PARLEMENT

www.parl.gc.ca/guides

freezing man

CHROMEO
BROKEN STARS
SOCIAL KASKADE
SCENE K-OS
MAJOR LAZER
DRAGONETTE
SHOUT IT OUT

JANUARY 29, 2011
NORTHLANDS EXPO CENTRE

WINTER CARNIVAL STARTS AT NOON
10 DJS ON 2 OUTDOOR STAGES
FS SKATE & SNOW JAM RAIL
WINTER FASHION SHOW BY PARLOUR

FREEZINGMANFESTIVAL.COM
TICKETS AT TICKETMASTER

Everyday is Independence Day!

BEER! BURGERS! BASEBALL! BABES!

REGRETFULLY BROUGHT TO YOU BY HUDSONS CANADIAN TAP HOUSE

GUBA MISSING AFTER NAKED TIRADE

BEAR LECHER
Forest Creeper

Guba, the official mascot of the university's Golden Bears athletic teams, has reportedly begun exposing himself to both students and young children, possibly after the bear got tired of having to constantly wear shorts everywhere.

"We received a distress call last week that a bear wearing a hat and sporting a sly grin was going up to people in Education Car Park, asking them if they'd 'like to see something,' then opening up his large black trenchcoat, exposing his lack of anatomical correctness for all to see," said Campus 5-0 officer Chet Pacman. "When we attended the scene, the mascot had fled. Given how well he blends into the crowd at the university, what with his enlarged fuzzy head, we expect he'll have to strike again before we can get a lead."

According to witnesses on scene, children covered their eyes or started screaming, while one young boy yelled, "Mommy, why does it not have a penis?"

It is only one event of many over the past few weeks that have called into question the rogue ursidae's behaviour after being forced to wear itchy, unwashed shorts for several years.

"Last week, we received word that several students had been attacked while walking, by a bear who attempted to grind on them in public," said Pacman. "Unfortunately, use of pepper spray proved fruitless and only several sharp kicks to the groin got the furry assailant off the female victim. As well, we also had a report come in that women in the Van Vliet female locker room noticed a felt ear poking out from one of the lockers. When opened, a naked bear tumbled out, screamed, then ran away."

University of Alberta Athletics was unable to explain why its Golden Bears mascot was behaving so inappropriately, but refused to concede on a change in uniform.

"We believe that if you take into consideration many other sporting teams across North America, you will see that shorts are the attire of choice for the vast majority of mascots. If Guba had wanted to wear corduroys or sweat pants, he shouldn't have taken the job," said Acting Director of Sweating and Panting Pang Leonidas. "Plus, the idea of a bear wearing pants is simply silly."

Leonidas added that the news of Guba's exposures have taken its toll on several people in the organization.

"I'd be lying if I said I'm not banged up about it. Just the other day, my daughter asked me, 'Daddy, why does the bear man not like to wear clothes?' I didn't even know what to say. How do you tell an eight-year-old that the guy who's supposed to be cheering children up at hockey games and shaking their hands is actually some kind of sick fuck? I'm now really starting to question the motive behind all those hugs he had been giving out."

Leonidas said that additionally, Guba's partner blamed herself.

"Patches has been hitting the bottle pretty hard and crying herself to sleep. The panda told me personally, 'It's my fault. If only I wore shorts too, instead of this muumuu, he'd be all right and feel accepted.' I try to console her, but I don't really know what to say. I agree; that muumuu is hideous. But it's not like we just have tons of 'shorts' money sitting around."

As of press time, Guba had most recently been seen behind a bush in SUB, leering at passing women.

BRETT FAVRE

Beerpong team teetering on the verge of collapse, success

beerpong roundup

Beers vs. Dinos

RUSTIN SMELL
Not getting his balls in the paper

Performing well in their first full season of competitive beer pong after its introduction to the CIS last year, the Pong Bears have tossed their way to a tie for third in the Canada West division going into the long-awaited winter break.

Downing a number of rivals over the course of the season, the Bears have found their stride in the new sport. But it hasn't been an easy road for the Pong Bears as they have been forced to deal with early season jitters including two games in a row where the team was disqualified due to mid-game regurgitations.

Despite their struggles, the Bears are now firing on all cylinders. According to head coach Dan "Hops" McDougall, the first Irish coach in the league, the Green and Gold are mastering even the most advanced of trick bounces and have managed to play through opponents drunkenly hitting on their girlfriends.

"I've never been more proud of a group of alcoholics in my whole life,"

HENRI CARTIER-BRESSON

McDougall told a packed press conference on Friday. "The way these kids can perform while drunk would put to shame even the surliest Serbian."

McDougall pointed to the performance of a number of first-years providing the team with some much-needed accuracy on the backcourt. Dan Sumps and Robert Nider are both shooting .800 from the field and chugging pints in 2.1 seconds flat.

The two have been anchoring the Bears matches for the past three weeks, as they take on the likes of the University of Regina Cougars and embarrassed the U of C Dinos, a team known for their flamboyant costumes and propensity for bringing eccentric props to games.

"I don't know where those dickholes got a peacock," Nider said, recalling their October match-up with the Dinos. "The damn thing shit on the table. That has to be some sort of violation."

But according to a controversial ruling by the CIS Beer Pong regulators, pheasants are allowed on the playing field in order to distract opposing players. In that game, a Golden Pheasant was unleashed on the Huskies, taking out two players' eyes.

It's not all golden hops for the Beer Pong team, however. The squad has been struggling with their academics and currently have a combined GPA "much lower than the average student."

Star forward Tom Thompson will spend the second half of the season on academic probation, as well as considering a stint in rehab.

The team has also faced injuries early in the season. The Bears will be without defender Rob Robertson for two games as he recovers from an acute kidney problem, while former team captain Nick Tonies is out indefinitely with liver failure.

The Bears will take the Christmas break to recoup and heal their injured players. Their first game back should be an easy romp as they take on the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds, a team that practices on Wreck Beach and often has a difficult time focusing on the game in between bong hits.

"I'm going to literally shit on one of those hippies," said Nider, waving his posterior in the air in order to make his point. "They can smoke my pole."

GARY AND BARRY

Basketball star remains humble in the face of being a horrible guy

asshole profile

Don Fantino
Bears Basketball

SHOWRON ME
Yo PUZZZY

Every Thursday afternoon, between practice and his long bus ride home, Bears basketball prodigy Don Fantino goes for a long walk. Where he goes is a mystery to his teammates. But they tend to agree on one thing: they wish he wouldn't come back.

Contrary to recent press reports, the 6'1 point guard isn't the upstanding citizen everyone thought he was. Teammates relate stories of his propensity for pushing over old people, his general hatred for recycling, and his sometimes misogynistic rants.

"Fantino once asked me if I wanted to 'pop some Viagra and head to a Pandas volleyball game with raging boners,'" said first-year teammate Robert Kaplan. "I can't stand being around this d-bag. It's like hanging out with Tom Arnold."

Most of his teammates cite his amazing basketball skills as the reason they put up with his often times lewd behaviour and overt racism. He played half a game earlier this season without shorts on, a tactic that got him banned for three games. CIS director Burt Canderson called it "the worst act of intolerance since Clare Drake wore a dress in order to protest women's hockey."

"Fantino once asked me if I wanted to 'pop some Viagra and head to a Pandas volleyball game with raging boners.'"

ROBERT KAPLAN
GUARD, BEARS BASKETBALL

But the fourth-year basketball phenom/sad excuse for a human being is on track to break the Canada West scoring record, meaning his teammates have to put up with his bullshit shenanigans even longer.

During a recent interview with The Getaway, he decried the unfair accusations hurled at him by his fellow Bears. He called them "(expletive deleted)(expletive deleted) sons of (expletive deleted)."

Over the course of the interview, Fantino made at least three racial slurs, five homophobic remarks, and on one occasion removed his pants and demonstrated his affinity for the University of Calgary Dinos with his genitals.

Asked about his star player's crude and often derogatory actions, Bears head coach Dominic Norton said it all comes down to his performance on the court.

"Look, if he were riding the bench like a jabroni, I would not tolerate his behaviour at all. But this kid is racking up 40 points a night, on his own," said Norton. "We have to give him a bit of room. And in this case, that means looking the other way when he slips birth control into the city's water supply."

The CIS, as well as the Athletics department, has Fantino on a short leash. In a joint statement to The Getaway, they said his racist and misogynistic actions will no longer be tolerated, though they stressed they can't do anything about Fantino being a "general asshole."

ISIS DANCE Productions Ltd.
Presents

MIDNIGHT AT THE OASIS

STUDENT/TEACHER BELLYDANCE RECITAL

Nov. 28, 2010 @ 7:30pm

Festival Place Theatre

100 Festival Way, Sher. Park

Tix $18. adv. $22. door

Avail. Isis Dance

Ph. 780-439-6960

Festival Place Ph. 780-464-2852

www.isisdance.com

DUDE.
WE'RE CHANGING!
GRAB A FUCKIN' RED BULL AND PEEP THIS SHIT, YO

OUR NEW NAME LIKE TOTALLY REFLECTS THE FUCKIN' PEACE OFFICER ORGANIZATION WE HAVE BECOME, OR WHATEVER. LIKE, BETTER TRAINED AND MORE SOPHIST--, MORE SUFFIS--, MORE, LIKE, SMARTER AND SHIT, WE'RE FUCKIN' GOING HARD ON KEEPING YOUR SHIT SAFE. BITCHES BETTER RECOGNIZE.

 BROTECTIVE SERVICES
UNIVERSITY OF ALBROTA

WILL STRIP FOR BLOW

NOW CLOSED on Weekdays and Weekends!
Ask us about our fantastic unemployment packages!
Call 780-555-1234 to book your EI claim!

 IRON PONY NIGHT CLUB

squirtssshorts

Compiled by Rusty Shackelford

Hoop Bear finally touches rim

Bears basketball center Robert Dewar, 6'11, reportedly touched the rim this week in practice; however, the feat could not be independently verified because nobody was looking.

"I totally did it guys. I swear," the second-year center from Guelph, Ont., reportedly said to anybody that would listen. "No, really guys! I have been training my vertical jump for months. You should have seen it. It was the highest that I ever jumped!"

Dewar also claims that he can dunk a tennis ball in the hoop behind his parent's house — if he times his jump just right and is wearing the right type of shoes.

Bears Football makes it to game

Much to the surprise of head coach Jerry Friesen, the Green and Gold football team arrived on time in Saskatoon for their preseason match against the Saskatchewan Huskies this weekend. Friesen was seen offering Rusty Shackelford, the Bears official bus driver, an enthusiastic high-five after their arrival at Mosaic Stadium.

"I have to hand it to Rusty. He really focused on the fundamentals — hands at 9 and 3, shoulder checks, the whole nine yards — he really bared down there and focused on the basics," Friesen said, adding that "the way [Shackelford] navigated around that pile of dirt outside of North Battleford was a sight to behold."

"SWEET JESUS! WE MADE IT! WE'RE ACTUALLY HERE!!" Friesen said before his team took to the field, losing to the Huskies by 53 points in an all-together expected result.

HORSE

After losing six more players to season-ending knee injuries last week, head coach Scott Edwards made history this weekend in the Pandas Saturday evening match against Regina.

In a third-quarter huddle, Edwards drew up a play of complex — and in the end illegible — squiggles before telling team captain Marissa Haylett to score the 'Inverse Basket.'

The play worked to perfection as Haylett, after dribbling around in circles for 23 seconds, ran up to the basket, and threw the ball upwards through the net.

What happened next was a sight to behold, as fireworks exploded from the shot clock, Queen's "We Are the Champions" immediately began blaring from the loudspeakers, and the Pandas were suddenly leading the game 8-14.

"I saw some kids do this on the playground a couple weeks ago," Edwards said. "I figured, they must know something that I don't. Why not try it in a game?"

Hall not eligible for child support

It was announced yesterday at the Court of Queen's Bench that Steve Hall, former CFL player, and father of Oilers Taylor Hall, will no longer be obligated to pay child support to the pro hockey star.

"It's about fucking time," Steve Hall said standing on the stairs outside the courthouse on Monday. "I mean, the kid makes more than a million dollars a year. I doubt that my 300 bucks a month really makes a difference."

After the decision, Taylor Hall was getting into his Ferrari and driving away visibly upset about the ruling.

Swim team would rather watch

The University of Alberta Swim meet scheduled for this weekend was postponed indefinitely when the Bears squad refused to swim.

"It's too deep!" Bears captain Jerry

DANIEL MACCHENY

OFF THE DEEP END Ready for a day at the beach, varsity swimmer Rob Locksmith shows his debilitating fear of water.

Garrison shrieked. "You can't even see the bottom of the pool. There might be sharks down there or something."

Prior to the meet, the University of Alberta swim team was seen leaning over the pool and placing their pinky toe in an apparent attempt to determine the temperature of the water before whispering to each other that the water "must be like minus a million degrees in there. We could get hypothermia."

As of press time, the swim team was seen timidly wearing life jackets in the hot tub.

Cross-Country Blah Blah Blah

The Green and Gold Cross-Country team ran around in the woods this weekend at CIS Nationals on their way to winning a bronze med — oh, who gives a shit about the Cross-Country team anyways?

JOIN THE

AWARDS ADJUDICATION

COMMITTEE

GET INVOLVED WITH THE SU'S ANNUAL AWARDS NIGHT

The Awards Adjudication Committee helps select the winners of the SU's awards and scholarships based on campus and community involvement. It's a chance to help deserving students at the U of A get some recognition.

The committee will meet over the weekend of February 11-13th. Those on the committee cannot apply for an SU administered award or write reference letters for those who do.

HOW TO APPLY

APPLICATIONS ARE DUE JANUARY 14, 2011

Applications are available at www.su.ualberta.ca/awards
Fill out the application form and submit a cover letter, resume and two reference letters.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Contact the
STUDENT FINANCIAL AID
INFORMATION CENTRE

1-80 Students' Union Building
8900 114 Street
University of Alberta
Edmonton, AB T6G 2J7

PHONE (780) 492-3483
FAX (780) 492-9607
E-MAIL AWARDS@SU.UALBERTA.CA

Check out University of Alberta
Students' Union Awards on Facebook for updates

WWW.SU.UALBERTA.CA/AWARDS

Puppy given own dog whistle

OH BABY YOU, YOU GOT WHAT I NEED
But you say he's just a friend

After a season even more disastrous than the last, the Pandas field hockey team, who only won one game last season, has made a potentially game-changing decision with the hiring of Smokey, a golden retriever, as their interim head coach for the upcoming season.

Smokey enjoys long walks in the river valley, playing fetch, and eating dog biscuits. Like past Panda coaches, Smokey has little to no actual knowledge of field hockey, but he doesn't feel this will get in the way of focusing on the fundamentals.

"He's such a great coach. [...] While it isn't exceptional to have a coach ask for a belly rub after the game, this is the first time that it hasn't felt inappropriate."

TAMARA WALDING
DEFENCE, PANDAS FIELD HOCKEY

"Bark!" Smokey told The Getaway last Friday after a particularly intense practice.

Pandas training sessions this season have already been testing players obedience. Team captain Juliet Tunaman explained that Smokey has been working the girls hard and she expects to see the CIS field hockey championship trophy back at the U of A sometime in the next 20 years.

"We chase Smokey down Groat Road, through parks, and all over downtown," Tunaman said. "We haven't actually played any field hockey yet, but we've overcome our initial trepidation of pissing on fire hydrants."

"He's such a great coach," new recruit Tamarera Walding added. "While it isn't exceptional to have a coach ask for a belly rub after the game, this is the first time it hasn't felt inappropriate."

Lately, the team has been practicing such field hockey maneuvers such as play dead, roll over, and fetch. According to Tunaman, such exotic plays will never be suspected by their competitors and will catch the other teams completely off-guard.

The girls were seen lining up on the end line on all fours, before an assistant coach threw an old branch about 50 yards downfield. The team took off, with Smokey running circles around the girls and encouraging them to "go get it girl, that's a good girl!"

Smokey has been getting mixed reviews from the university administration. On one hand, he's cheaper than any of the other coaches, as his entire annual salary is a box of dog biscuits. However, other teams and referees have been complaining about Smokey's propensity to sprint after the ball in the midst of league competitions, grabbing the ball in his mouth and running off the field.

Hiring a dog as a coach might not be the end of innovative measures at the U of A for their field hockey team. Leaked email correspondence between Smokey and University of Alberta President Indira Samarawhereagudara has revealed that while dogs might be loyal, Smokey's master is the president and not the players he has been leading on.

The Getaway has learned that Smokey's utter disgust with the team's poor ability to play fetch has led him to evaluate previously unconsidered options.

"Since the humans masquerading as Pandas are unable to win, why not use actual Pandas?" Smokey rationalized in his letter to President Salami.

Smokey's ploy seems to have worked. While Tunaman showed up to practice with the required portion of dog food for Monday's practice, she was disappointed to see a field of black and white panda bears had taken over the turf and bamboo trees had been planted where the bleachers once stood.

Lebron: "I've decided I am royalty"

SO MANY THINGS I WANT TO SAY
You know I like my girls a little bit older

In an unprecedented programming decision earlier this week, DSPN announced that Miami Heat Guard LeBron James has signed on to star in a series of television specials entitled The Decisions. The 32-part series will show King James dragging out decisions about minor events while being asked simple questions about his decisions.

The announcement was prompted by the popularity of James' summer special where he took more than 45 minutes to announce his intention to sign a contract with the Miami Heat and take his talents to South Beach. The special drew millions of Americans to their television sets to bask in LeBron James' greatness. Afterwards, many people admitted that they had lost interest in the mediocrity of their lives, longing for another chance to see King James make routine decisions on his day to day activities.

On the pilot episode, entitled 'Breakfast', which aired last night, LeBron handled the usual assortment of softball questions for half an hour before proudly asserting that he'd decided to take his breakfast eating talents to the IHOP on Highway 95.

"Like I said before, eating breakfast at IHOP will give me the best opportunity to eat," James explained, citing the poor service at Denny's while stuffing a tall stack of IHOP's world famous buttermilk pancakes into his gullet. "It will also give me the opportunity to eat for many years. Not just to eat in the morning, but also in the afternoon as well. To say it was always in my plans — I can't say that, because I never thought it was possible to eat here. But at these low prices, it's a really tough thing to turn down."

The season-premiere also features four analysts discussing the importance and shock of this huge announcement. Other high class restaurants such as Applebee's, Waffle House, and TGIF's were in the running for the honour of James' breakfast decision, but were ultimately cut. The collection of analysts wondered just how this would change the landscape of breakfast forever.

Rumour has it that James is now in the market for a new Parakeet and that it will be the basis of 'Family Pet: The Decision'. Other episodes announced include: 'Where LeBron will go on vacation: The Decision,' 'What LeBron is getting his mom for Christmas: The Decision,' and 'Boxers or Briefs: The Decision.'

DSPN released the following statement after the broadcast; "James is doing us and the public a huge favour. Would we know that LeBron loves the country-fried steak and eggs without this program? Would we know that CINN-A-STACK pancakes are way better than Denny's Banana Foster French Toast Skillet if LeBron didn't tell us with this decision? This is groundbreaking stuff that everyone wants to know. And without LeBron and his Decisions, we'd have to fill our airtime with something obscure like poker or hockey."

Introducing
iFad.

SUBtitles
used textbooks and much more...

BUY, SELL OR CONSIGN TEXTS • UOFA CRESTED CLOTHING & MERCHANDISE

BUY, SELL, or CONSIGN TEXTS

CHEQUE PICKUP

Consignment Cheques are available for pickup starting December 15th

REGULAR HOURS:

Monday - Friday
10:00 am – 4:00 pm

Visit the
GREEN ZONE
at SUBtitles

Lower Level 0-22 SUB • 780-492-9744 • www.su.ualberta.ca/subtitles

POP TARTS AND SHAME by Ross<sup>1</sup> Cockblocked

CLASSIFIED DOCUMENTS

To submit a classified document, please go to 213.251.145.96

FOR SALE

Vintage 18th century pornography collection. Has been in continuous use for over a century. Own a piece of history! $600.

FOR RENT

Refurbished sex dungeon in a two story house — perfect for an open-minded student. Comes with two sets of exquisite wall-mounted chains, stocks made of the finest polished wood, and a leather couch we couldn't fit out the door. $450/month.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

New student group, Campus for a Better Tomorrow, holding first discussion night, Thursday, CAB 234, 6pm. Topic: Eugenics: The Misunderstood Science.

EMPLOYMENT - PART TIME

Outgoing couple looking for an adventurous assistant. Must be female, 18-25. $50 per appointment. Commission negotiable based on performance. Must not suffer from claustrophobia.

∞ THINGS THAT I DON'T HAVE ANY SPACE FOR

crossblurb

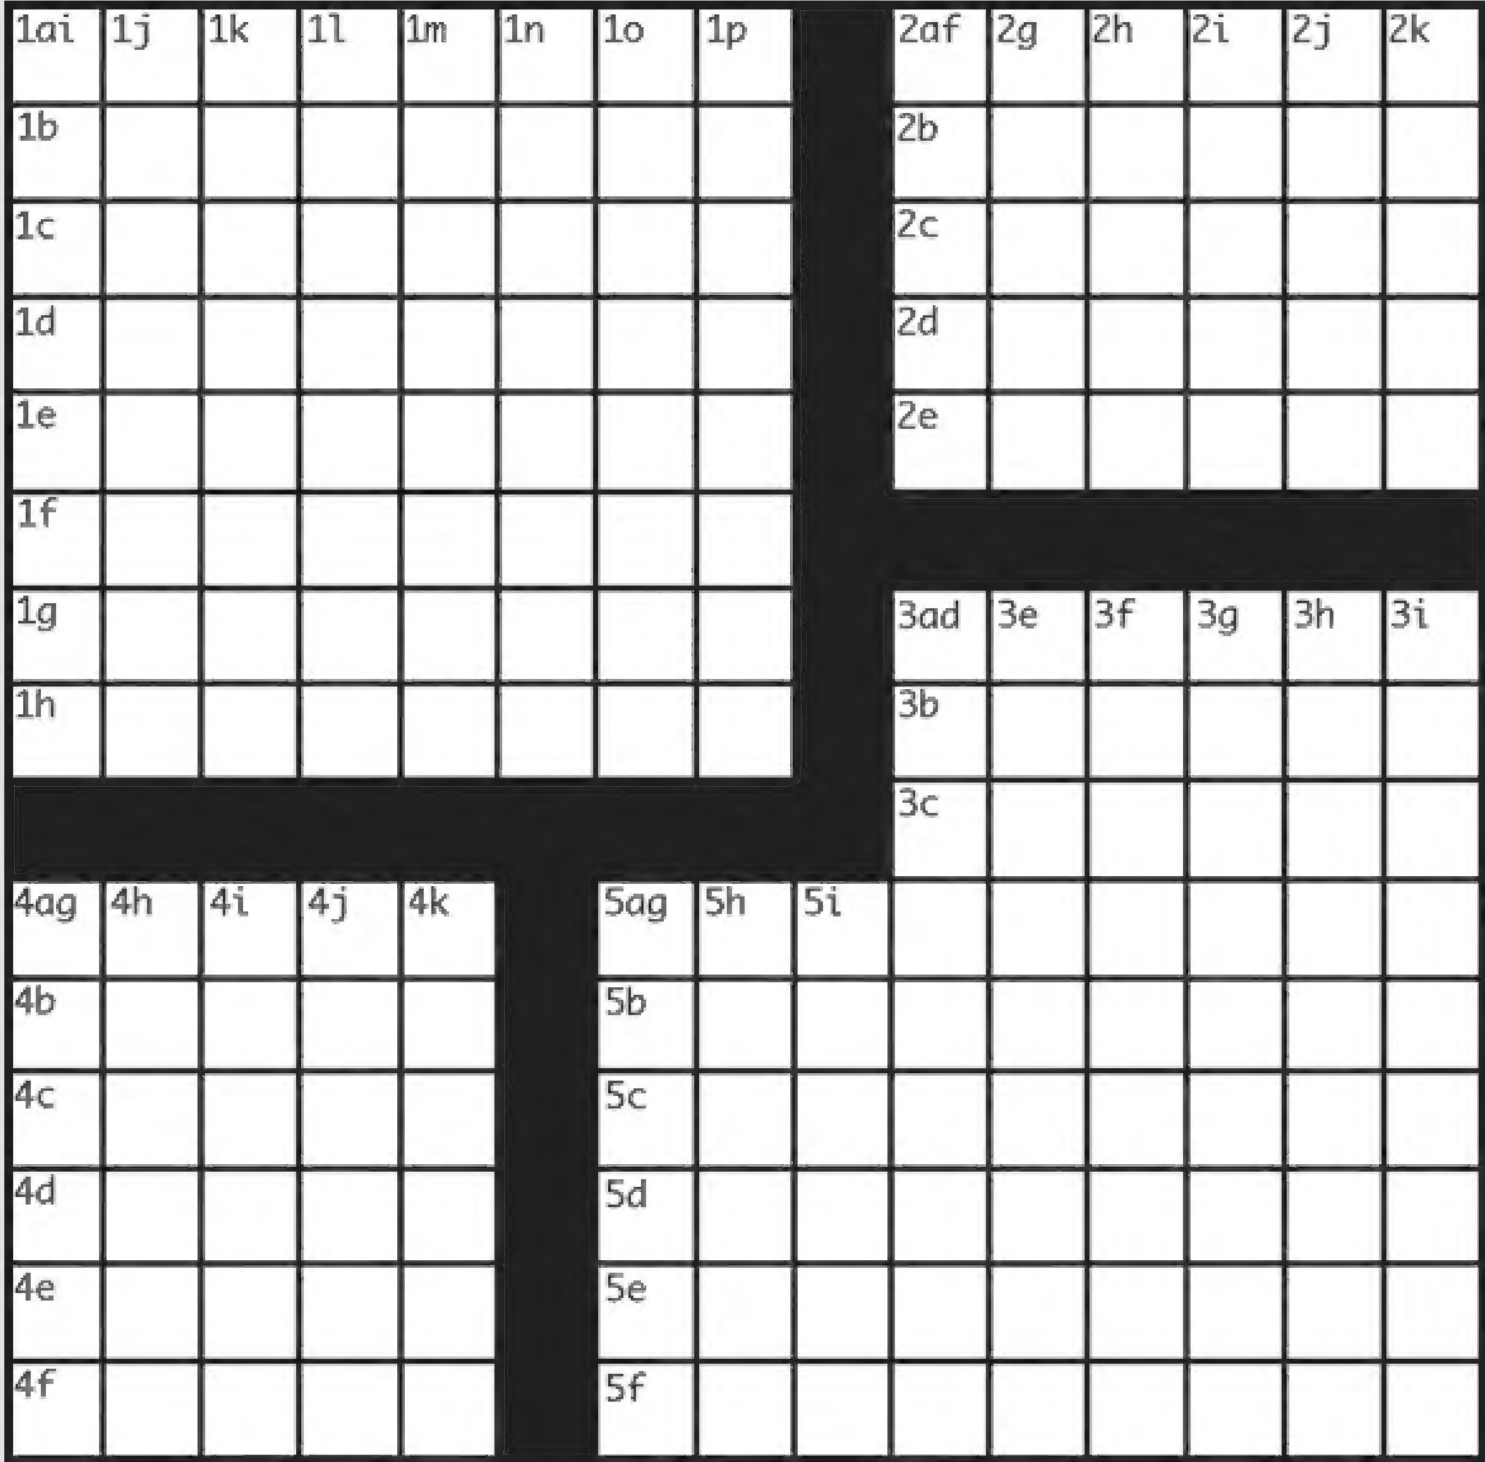

Put words in each box. But make sure the words form complete sentences both horizontally and vertically!

Across

1ai, 1b, 1c, 1d, 1e, 1f, 1g, 1h.
Is egg yoke a threat to our nation's youth? Justify your answer.
2af, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e.
Name five different examples of ways you have been fondled in the past month. (Assuming the black lines in the crossword is your midriff, circle where they touched you.)
3ad, 3b, 3c.
Stay silent for one year to learn the importance of a lover's whisper.
4ag, 4b, 4c, 4d, 4e, 4f.
Solve the quadratic  $2x^3 + 6x^2 - 4x + 7$  (Must show at least some work, even if it's unsolvable)
5ag, 5b, 5c, 5d, 5e, 5f
"Look like the innocent flower, but be the serpent under it." (Name where the quotation comes from, and explain its significance.)

Down

1ai, 1j, 1k, 1l 1m 1n, 1o, 1p.
I'm only fifteen years old, but already I feel like the world is too much to bear. Is this normal? (I've never met my real father.)
2af, 2g, 2h, 2i, 2j, 2k.
Using only four straight lines, attempt to draw over every box. (Hint you have to think about it from a different "angle," if you know what I mean.)
3ad, 3e, 3f, 3g, 3h, 3i
If you could live in one location, which would it be? (Be sure to include country, city, and neighbourhood)
4ag, 4h, 4i, 4j, 4k
Do you have any history working with small dogs or large children?

5ag, 5h, 5i
If you made it this far, I wanted to let you know that I've always been proud of you and your sister. And even though neither of you followed in my footsteps to become a professional dog petter, I now know that we all must step out that door and see where our hearts take us. (Please don't put me in a home)

INTRODUCING

RED ARROW MOTORCOACH Shuttle Service

Service commences December 9th, 2010

connecting you...

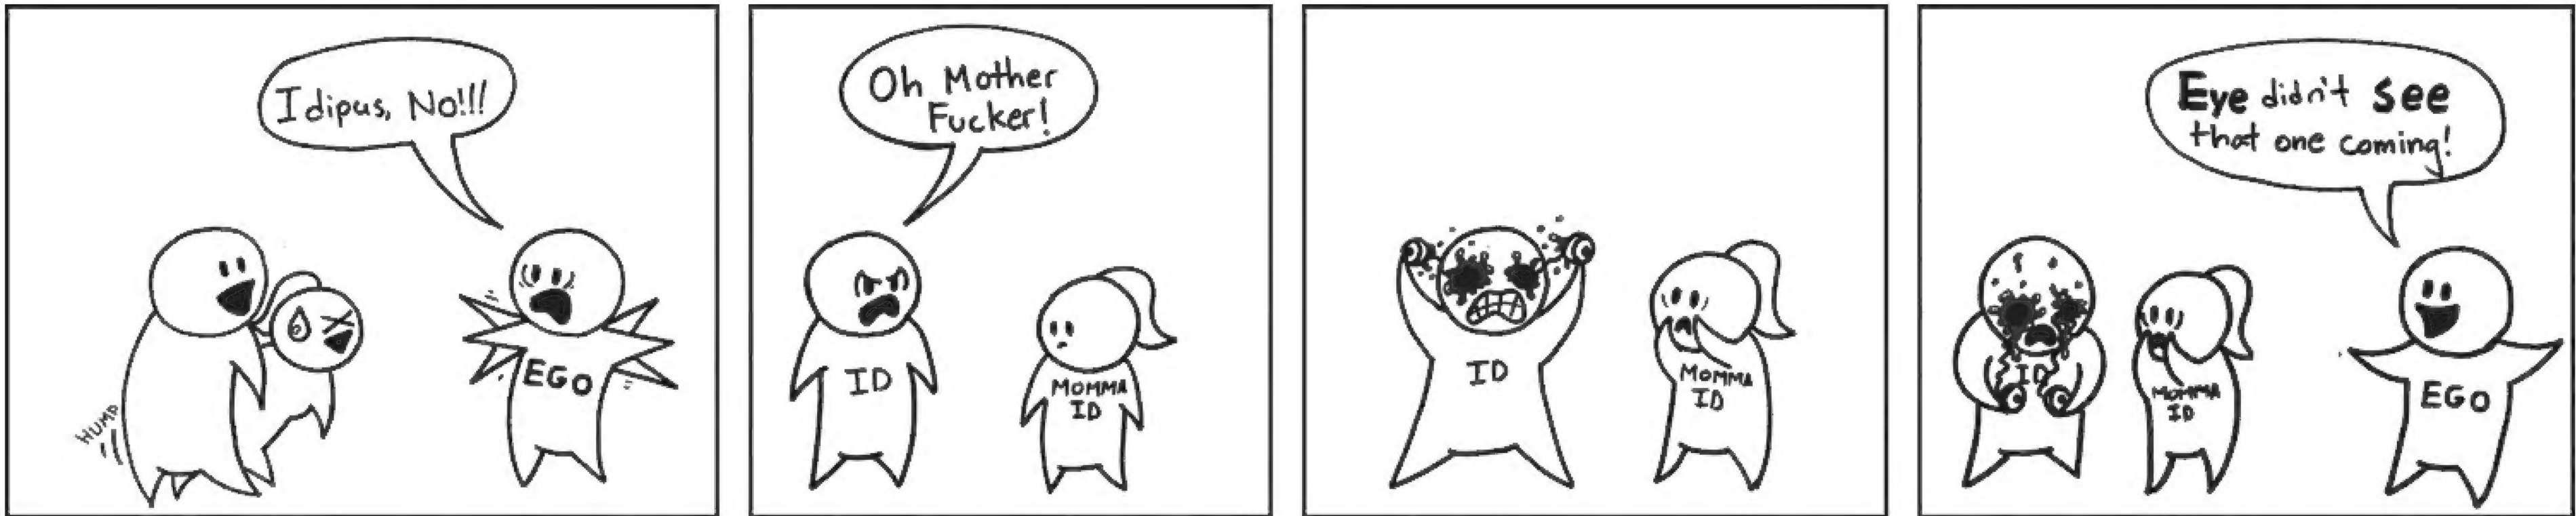

A Courtesy Service for UofA Students, Faculty and Staff traveling with Red Arrow Motorcoach

THURSDAY			FRIDAY			SUNDAY/HOLIDAY MONDAY
TELUS CENTRE 87 Ave between 111 & 112 St.	LISTER CENTRE 87 Ave at 116 St.	EDMONTON Ticket Office 10014 - 104 St.	TELUS CENTRE 87 Ave between 111 & 112 St.	LISTER CENTRE 87 Ave at 116 St.	EDMONTON Ticket Office 10014 - 104 St.	TELUS CENTRE 87 Ave between 111 & 112 St.	LISTER CENTRE 87 Ave at 116 St.	EDMONTON Ticket Office 10014 - 104 St.
11:30	11:35	12:00	11:30	11:35	12:00	12:30	12:35	13:00
12:30	12:35	13:00	12:30	12:35	13:00	13:30	13:35	14:00
13:30	13:35	15:00	13:30	13:35	15:00	15:30	15:35	16:00
15:30	15:35	16:00	15:30	15:35	16:00	16:30	16:35	17:00
16:30	16:35	17:00	16:30	16:35	17:00	17:30	17:35	18:00
17:30	17:35	18:00	17:30	17:35	18:00	18:30	18:35	19:00
18:30	18:35	19:00	18:30	18:35	19:00	19:30	19:35	20:00
19:30	19:35	20:00	19:30	19:35	20:00	20:30	20:35	21:00
*20:30	*20:35		*20:30	*20:35		21:30	21:35	22:00
						*22:30	*22:35
*DROP OFF ONLY
NOTE: On a Holiday Weekend, the UofA Courtesy Shuttle will operate on Monday, NOT Sunday.

Please visit www.redarrow.ca for University of Alberta Shuttle Service Updates

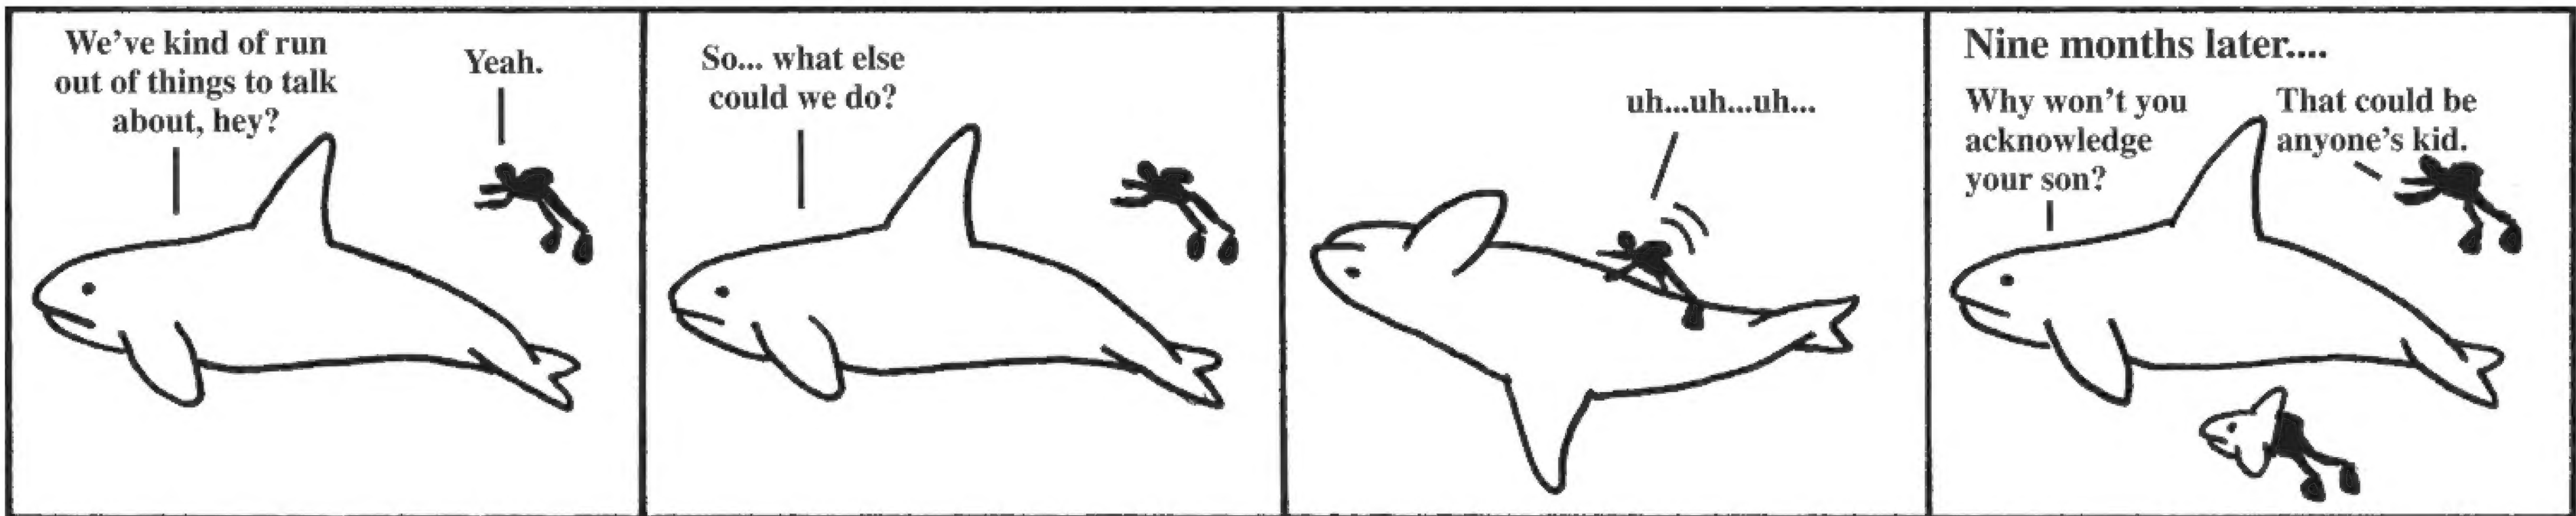

IDIPUS & ANTEGONE by Ben<sup>1</sup>Naval Piercing

OXFORD CIRCUS by Ross<sup>2</sup>Dolla Bills

BLOW HOLES THAT SWALLOW by Ben<sup>2</sup>Ruffled Chips

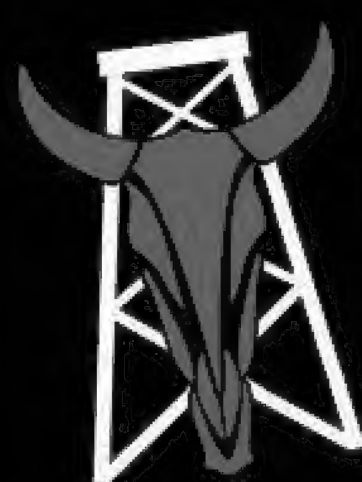

WATCHES YOU PEE by Ben<sup>3</sup>Ohmygodwhydoeseveryone

BETTER OFF DEAD ON MARS by Painful Hernia

OIL CITY
ROADHOUSE

jackass

3D

party hosted by

Friday 10
December

Bam
Margera

OIL CITY
ROADHOUSE

/ 10736 JASPER AVE [CORONA LRT STATION] / OILCITYROADHOUSE.COM

YOUR FRIENDS AT OIL CITY ROADHOUSE REMIND YOU TO PLEASE DRINK RESPONSIBLY!